MAY DEMAND MCADOO AND SMITH BOTH QUIT

NATIONAL BODY MEMBERS TALK OVER PROGRAM

Suggestion Advanced That Both McAdoo and Smith Must Step Out of Way

DANIELS DOUBTS IT

Thinks Time May Not Be Right For Such Action in the Convention

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 3. (By the A. P.)—Several members of the Democratic national committee were discussing on the floor of the convention a suggestion that the committee seek to end the deadlock by pressing for the public withdrawal of both Smith and McAdoo.

"There still is some question whether the time is ripe for such a move," said Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, chairman of the committee, thought the suggestion had merit. Some members of the committee expressed a willingness to confer on the question. Apparently nothing developed to blast the idea after it got under discussion for after casting about on a Chairman Hull said the scheme seems unreasonable, and Franklin D. Roosevelt, manager for Governor Smith, said "Pooh! Pooh!"

AIR MAIL IS SUCCESS, SAYS POSTAL HEAD

Business Men Using it More Than Curiosity Seekers, Says Henderson

Chicago, July 3.—(By the A. P.)—Transcontinental mail planes were rushing through the air with business-like regularity today, the third day of the new coast-to-coast, day-and-night air mail.

The heavy run of air mail continued, satisfying Col. Paul Henderson, assistant postmaster-general, superintendent of air mails with headquarters here, that business generally has found the new service helpful.

There was a suspicion that at the start persons desiring to send and receive letters by mail out of curiosity or for souvenir purposes might cause misrepresentation of the character of the service actually given.

"Most of the business people, manufacturers, bankers, jobbers and advertising men, are large users of the air mail," Col. Henderson said. "The percentage of curiosity letters is exceedingly small."

With nearly machine-like precision the mail planes were skimming through the skies today, keeping close to schedule. One package was bound today from Cleveland to San Francisco, carrying nearly $200 in postage, was so vari-colored as to attract attention of air mail employees. One side of the parcel was green, the other blue. There was a white spot, too, which on examination, proved to be an address the remainder of the color being provided by the blank of air mail stamps. The parcel was said to contain films of the tornado havoc in Lorain, Ohio, and that vicinity.

N. D. EPWORTH LEAGUE BODY MEETS JULY 7

Valley City, N. D., July 3.—The Second Annual North Dakota Epworth League Institute, will be held at the Chautauque Park, Valley City, July 7-14, 1924. There will be more than three hundred in attendance from all over North Dakota. There will be more than a dozen members on the faculty, consisting of college presidents, missionaries, social workers, recreational directors, distinguished pastors and prominent laymen. The new bishop of this area, Berna succeeds Bishop Charles Wesley Berna as Bishop Lester Smith, who will be in attendance from Monday until Wednesday. Dr. Stanley Jones, of India, will speak several times in the evening. Dr. Walters, who was the popular pastor of First Church, Fargo, a few years ago, is to be the instructor in the lessons of "Church and War." There will be stunts and pageants and original songs. The institute idea is vacation, recreation, education, inspiration. Rev. LeRoy G. White of Minot is the dean; Rev. J. S. Wilds of Valley City is manager.

THEY WERE READY FOR TROUBLE

Remarkable picture showing how well Democratic convention was policed when critical issues were under discussion and feeling was running high. Seven police, it will be noticed, were stationed in this one small section. With feeling running high trouble had been expected and the number of policemen on hand doubled.

TABLETS BEARING WAR MOTHERS' TRIBUTE TO SERVICE MEN AND WOMEN OF NORTH DAKOTA ARE UNVEILED HERE

Many Attend Unveiling of Bronze Tablets Set on Huge Boulders, at Each End of the Missouri River Bridge—Stands as Symbol of War Mothers' Tribute

Over 200 War Mothers and interested friends assembled at the Liberty Memorial bridge this morning at 11 o'clock for the unveiling of the two tablets placed at each end of the bridge, and erected by the North Dakota Chapter of the American War Mothers to North Dakota men and women who served during the World War.

"From the prairies we have chosen natural boulders which have withstood the storms and stress of the ages, as best typifying the mother love," said Mrs. A. C. McLane of Kenmare, state war mother, who spoke briefly on the reason for erecting the tablets and for choosing the site here.

Bismarck being the Capital City, it was thought the most fitting place for the memorial, together with the fact that the bridge is a memorial bridge, and every day receives traffic from all over the country, Mrs. McLane explained. Mrs. McLane was introduced by Mrs. W. C. Cashman, past president of the Bismarck War Mothers.

Attorney General Shafer, in his dedicatory address, commended the appropriateness of the erection of the memorial by the mothers of those whom it commemorated.

Many Will See Them
"Countless restless Americans from East and West will pause here to read the inscription on these tablets, and will be inspired with a greater patriotism and devotion to their country than ever before," said Mr. Shafer.

Mrs. A. E. Jones, of Lisbon, former state War Mother, and in a large measure responsible for the erection of the tablets, unveiled the tablets at the east end of the bridge, this tablet having the inscription:

"In honor of our sons and daughters who offered their lives to their country in the World War. Erected by the North Dakota Chapter of the American War Mothers, 1924." The tablet at the west end of the bridge was unveiled by Mrs. McLane, and bore the following inscription:

"In loving memory of our sons and daughters who died in the World War that liberty might live. Erected by the North Dakota Chapter of the American War Mothers, 1924."

Major A. B. Welch accepted the tablets, in the absence of the state commander of the American Legion. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Father Slag, and the benediction by Rev. H. Owen, of Mandan. The Mandan Municipal band during the ceremonies played The Star Spangled Banner, America, and led in the singing of the latter by all present. The crowd was stilled by the playing of the Assembly by two bugles immediately before the ceremonies began.

Tape Sounded
At the close of the unveiling, "Tape" was beautifully played by three bugles stationed at intervals on the bridge, the music gradually dying off into the distance.

The tablets are made of bronze, set into natural boulders of grey granite.

Following the dedication ceremonies, the War Mothers were taken to the Country Club, for luncheon. An informal program of toasts, provided over by Mrs. McLane, was given.

MILL REPAIRS MADE
Grand Forks, N. D., July 3.—The North Dakota state mill will be closed for probably two weeks while repairs are being made, according to C. E. Austin, manager. Such repairs are made periodically. Mr. Austin explained, and the closing of the mill while they are being made is merely part of the routine.

PRISONER IN ESCAPE FROM PRISON FARM

A. G. Dolman, Serving Term For Forgery, Leaves Cultivator at Penitentiary

IS TRACED TO RIVER

Bloodhounds Follow His Scent to Near the Missouri River Bridge Here

Albert G. Dolman, 44, sentenced at Fargo March 26, 1924, to serve eight years in the state penitentiary, today broke his trust and escaped while employed on the prison farm. Dolman was cultivating corn at the time. Prison officials believe that when they discovered his absence about 9:30 a. m., he had not been gone more than half an hour.

The escaped man's trail was scented by prison bloodhounds to the Missouri River bottoms, and a posse of guards was searching the bottoms for him at noon. He circled through the prison fields and avoided Bismarck, reaching the river at a point near the North Dakota Liberty Memorial bridge. Guards were posted at the bridge and all people crossing the bridge were intercepted.

Dolman was sentenced for forgery in the second degree. His description, as given by prison officials, follows: 5 feet 10 inches tall, weight 170 pounds, face full, complexion fair, hair gray, wears size 7 hut, 9 1/2 shoes, teeth are good, eyes peculiar, being slate color streaked with chestnut. He was wearing the prison garb of khaki pants and blue shirt, with khaki cap, at the time of his escape.

BANK CALL IS ISSUED

Washington, D. C., July 3.—The comptroller of the currency today issued a call for condition of all national banks of close of business Monday, June 30.

POLICY OF N. P. UNSETTLED

No Action Taken to Fill Fall Ticket

No action was taken by the Non-partisan League state executive committee and Senator Lynn J. Frazier and others here in a conference on the results of the June 25 primary, toward putting up candidates to oppose successful Independents, according to John Bloom, editor of the North Dakota Nonpartisan. It was indicated by those in attendance that another conference would follow, probably within two weeks, at which the course of the Nonpartisan League organization would be determined.

MANY ATTEND LAST RITES

A large number of friends attended the last rites for Mrs. W. R. Allison in the McKenzie church yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Allison died in Bismarck on June 29. Services were conducted by Rev. M. J. Zeller, who paid high tribute to the life of the deceased. Burial was in the McKenzie cemetery.

PROMOTES TOUR THROUGH BADLANDS, PRELIMINARY TO PARK PROJECT

Plans for a tour of the Grand Canyon of the Little Missouri, which may lead to the formation of an association to urge establishment of Roosevelt National Park in the Badlands, were outlined here today by E. E. Fredeen of Ryder, fiscal agent of the Parks Highway, who originated the idea of a tour and formation of the association.

Representatives of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Soo line railroads, Twin City newspapers and others from the Northwest will be included in the party which will leave Minot on Monday morning, July 28, for the trip, according to Mr. Fredeen. The tour may last several days.

"The scenery in the Badlands is as wonderful as any in the country," said Mr. Fredeen.

Dr. A. H. Yoder, director of the extension division of the University of North Dakota, will be one of the chief members of the party, and has been chosen to dedicate "Bear Den" of the Grand Canyon of the Little Missouri.

The tour will include a stop at Bill Challoner's ranch for a rodeo, trip to the Killdeer Mountains, petrified forest and other points of interest. Mr. Fredeen said while here that 18 miles of road will be built on the Parks Highway in northern McKenzie county, part of it across the Berthold reservation, contracts having been let in McKenzie county last week. Twelve miles will be built by the federal government and six miles as a federal-state project.

HOTEL BILLS INFLUENCE TO END DEADLOCK

New York, July 3.—Hotel bills are working for everybody in the Democratic presidential contest in Madison Square Garden adherents of all candidates agreed today as the balloting approached the record-breaking point.

The mountain of bills received the thoughtful consideration of scores of delegates and in many quarters of the hall the subject has taken the place beside the issues of the convention.

From scattered quarters came the suggestion that the cost of living might do more to help break the deadlock than the more earnest pleadings of the floor managers. Today was the tenth since the convention was assembled. Many of the delegates already have been in the city two full weeks.

LAFOLLETTE TO SEND MESSAGE TO CLEVELAND

Sealed Envelope Goes Forward With His Statement To Progressive Parley

IS HOLDING PEACE

Probably Won't Definitely Put Himself in Race Until After Dem Convention

Washington, July 3.—Senator LaFollette intends to hold his peace with reference to his plans to run for President until a Democratic candidate has been selected in New York, it was said today by a group of his supporters who held a conference here.

The Cleveland convention, which is to name him, is to meet tomorrow but it is suggested here that it might be necessary to await the Wisconsin Senator's pronouncement which will first be made public when it is received in Cleveland.

A committee representing organizations endeavoring to bring out the ticket with Senator LaFollette at its head will receive at a private gathering at the Senator's home a sealed copy of the message which he will transmit to the convention. Senator LaFollette's supporters were said to be anxious that he be nominated at Cleveland, but this course, it was added, might be upset by the Senator's desire to hold off until completion of the Democratic convention.

DRAW UP PLANS

Cleveland, July 3.—Declaring that neither the Republican nor the Democratic platforms was acceptable to them, the national committee in charge of the conference for Progressive Political Action today drew up plans for the convention of the organization in this city July 4 and 5.

William H. Johnson, chairman of the committee and who will also deliver the keynote speech Friday, said that there was no doubt but that a national ticket would be placed in the field to run independently.

"Virtually all of the delegates here are favorable to the presidential candidacy of Senator Robert M. LaFollette and are insistent upon his running," he said.

This sentiment was echoed by J. A. H. Hopkins, chairman of the committee of 48. Other leaders predicted that the conference would not nominate LaFollette but would adopt the platform which his followers offered in vain to the recent Republican convention.

Expect 700 Delegates
"The old parties have done exactly what we expected them to do, and have really advanced our cause rather than their own," said Mr. Hopkins.

Reports to the committee indicated, it was said, that at least 700 delegates would attend the conference. Arthur Holder, executive secretary, was absconding for a statement that 32 states had been organized under the banner of the conference.

Only "true progressives," representing reputable organizations, will be welcome to the convention, it was announced. To that end a credentials committee was selected, charged with the duty of excluding communists.

Under this decision, the National Farmer-Labor party, formed at St. Paul last month, will not be recognized here although the chairman of its executive committee, William Mahoney, is a member of the national committee as a representative of the Farmer-Labor party of Minnesota. He did not, however, attend the meeting but it was learned that his status was discussed by the members of the national committee.

More than 200,000 houses have been built in Great Britain since 1919.

INDIANA SENATOR IS CARRIED TO NEAR 100 IN VOTING WHEN THE CONVENTION TAKES NEW RECESS

Both McAdoo and Smith Hold Lines Fairly Tight in Face of Second Drive to Put a Favorite Son Over For the Nomination—Baltimore Record Passed in Balloting

New York, N. Y., July 3.—The Democratic National Convention adjourned this afternoon until 8:30 o'clock tonight, with the deadlock on the nomination for the presidency still far from being broken. Neither of the leaders—William G. McAdoo of California, nor Governor Al Smith of New York—appeared today to give up hope of winning out, although neither of them gained strength as the balloting continued, and although the vote fluctuated, the net result was that both lost votes.

On the fifty-third ballot, Smith had 320 1/2; Davis of West Virginia 83; Underwood 42 1/2; Cox 54; Glass 25; Saulsbury six; Owen four; McAdoo 423 1/2; Ralston 94; Robinson 43; Ritchie 16 1/2; Bryan of Nebraska six.

Governor Ralston of Indiana, whose vote had been around 33 for two days, climbed rapidly as the offensive for his nomination was started. He rose to 63 on the fifty-first ballot and to 94 on the fifty-third ballot, but no likelihood of a spontaneous trend toward him was in evidence.

TODAY'S TREND IS SHOWN IN BALLOT RECORD

Madison Square Garden, July 3.—(By the A. P.)—Thomas Taggart today launched his long heralded offensive for the nomination of Ralston of Indiana by the Democratic national convention.

As the long succession of ballots approached the half-century mark the Indiana leader began to bring from under cover the votes he has been holding out until he was convinced the leaders had been eliminated.

The first result was that on the 48th ballot Ralston further crippled the McAdoo strength by taking the solid 20 votes of Mississippi.

The Indiana Senator also picked up five in Illinois and one in Minnesota, making his total 57 in place of the 31 given him on a long string of preceding ballots.

Taggart said he expected to ride the boom for all it was worth, hoping his man would prove the candidate on which the tightly deadlocked convention could untie as a compromise. At first the progress was slow but Taggart did not appear to be discouraged. The defection of Mississippi, following that of Oklahoma which earlier in the balloting swung over to Senator Robinson of Arkansas, appeared to have materially crippled the McAdoo forces who were fighting for a majority in the hope that they could put over their man by abolishing the two-thirds rule. On the 49th ballot the McAdoo total which had mounted to 500 last night, had fallen to 462 1/2.

Mean time Governor Smith was holding his own with 320 votes and most of the other candidates were running along as usual except for the gain for Robinson resulting in Oklahoma's departure from the McAdoo camp. While the voting went on, W. G. McAdoo held several conferences with his advisers and carefully outlined a strategy which he still insisted would result in his nomination. He told his friends after he should be made to make Smith forces disclose their strength and, while he knew that the opposition had little reservoirs of strength here and there among the delegates, that when the Smith showdown came it would result in reaction.

There were little informal confabs in the convention leaders looking to a compromise. In this connection there was talk of Ralston and Cummings. Friends of Robinson were pressing his name in these conferences.

Pass Baltimore Record
Having passed the Baltimore record for consecutive balloting the convention went on to the 47th ballot. It developed that Senator Glass releasing his delegates, advised his friends on the delegation to vote for McAdoo. The anti-McAdoo men on the delegation, in the majority, contended that the delegation is instructed for Glass and he cannot budge it. They decline to permit a breakup at this time.

There was a movement in the Missouri delegation to give a complimentary vote on the next ballot to former Governor Gurnea. That would involve an out of 38 in the McAdoo strength, temporarily at least. As the convention went into the 48th ballot, McAdoo delegates received a personal letter from their candidate urging them to stick to a while.

LONG DISTANCE RECORDS STAND

New York, July 3.—Previous high records in Democratic national conventions included four which the present convention has not yet shattered. They were:

1852—Gen. Franklin Pierce of New Hampshire, named on 49th ballot at Baltimore.

1860—Sen. Stephen A. Douglas of Illinois, chosen on 58th ballot at Baltimore.

1912—Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, nominated on 46th ballot at Baltimore.

1920—Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, selected on 44th ballot at San Francisco.

The highest ballot record of the Republicans was in 1852 when the party was called Whig, and Gen. Winfield Scott was named on the 53rd ballot.

TRIBUNE WILL NOT ISSUE JULY 4

In accordance with its usual custom, The Tribune will not publish on Friday, July the Fourth.

The average depth of the ocean below sea level is 12,500 feet. Earthquakes average about 80 a year.

UTILITY SALE IS APPROVED

Sale of the property of the Midwest Power Company at Casselton, Oakes, Enderlin and Lisbon to the Ottertail Power Company of Fergus Falls, Minnesota, has been approved by the state railroad commission, it was announced today by Chairman Mithollan. The Ottertail company recently purchased the electric utility at Jamestown.

EQUIPMENT IS TO BE SOLD

County Offers Considerable
Road Equipment

The county commissioners, at a session concluded today, decided to advertise for sale engines, oil tanks and trucks, dump wagons, cook cars, one tractor and other equipment used in road building in the county. It was deemed advisable by the commissioners to offer the equipment, much of which is not in use at this time, for sale.

The county also has several trucks which were obtained from the Highway Commission, being a part of the surplus war equipment, which are little used, but are not to be offered for sale because the county does not have title to them.

FEDERAL BANKS LOANED MUCH

Washington, July 3.—The federal intermediate credit banks have made loans aggregating $76,637,515 to farmers of the country in the slightly less than one year since the new credit system was organized. It was announced yesterday by the federal farm loan board at the conclusion of the semiannual conference of the board and officials of the farm loan and intermediate credit banks. Up to May 1, last, $27,697,757 of the loans had been repaid, showing that $48,939,758 of government money is being used by the farmers to finance current crops or livestock production and marketing.

A formal statement issued by the board said it was "highly gratified" with the record made by the banks and regarded the system as having established itself as a useful and necessary American institution.

DRAW UP PLANS

Cleveland, July 3.—Declaring that neither the Republican nor the Democratic platforms was acceptable to them, the national committee in charge of the Conference for Progressive Political Action today drew up plans for the convention of the organization in this city July 4 and 5.

William H. Johnson, chairman of the committee and who will also deliver the keynote speech Friday, said that there was no doubt but that a national ticket would be placed in the field to run independently.

"Virtually all of the delegates here are favorable to the presidential candidacy of Senator Robert M. LaFollette and are insistent upon his running," he said.

Expect 700 Delegates
"The old parties have done exactly what we expected them to do, and have really advanced our cause rather than their own," said Mr. Hopkins.

Reports to the committee indicated, it was said, that at least 700 delegates would attend the conference. Arthur Holder, executive secretary, with authority for a statement, that 32 states had been organized under the banner of the conference.

Only "true progressives, representing representative organizations" will be welcome to the convention, it was announced. To that end a credentials committee was selected, charged with the duty of excluding communists.

Under this decision, the National Farmer-Labor party, formed at St. Paul last month, will not be recognized here although the chairman, William Mahoney, is a member of the national committee as a representative of the Farmer-Labor party of Minnesota. He did not, however, attend the meeting but it was learned that his status was discussed by the members of the national committee.

More than 200,000 houses have been built in Great Britain since 1919.

INDIANA SENATOR IS CARRIED TO NEAR 100 IN VOTING WHEN THE CONVENTION TAKES NEW RECESS

Both McAdoo and Smith Hold Lines Fairly Tight in Face of Second Drive to Put a Favorite Son Over For the Nomination—Baltimore Record Passed in Balloting

New York, N. Y., July 3.—The Democratic National Convention adjourned this afternoon until 8:30 o'clock tonight, with the deadlock on the nomination for the presidency still far from being broken. Neither of the leaders—William G. McAdoo of California, nor Governor Al Smith of New York—appeared today to give up hope of winning out, although neither of them gained strength as the balloting continued, and although the vote fluctuated, the net result was that both lost votes.

On the fifty-third ballot, Smith had 320 1/2; Davis of West Virginia 83; Underwood 42 1/2; Cox 54; Glass 25; Saulsbury six; Owen four; McAdoo 423 1/2; Ralston 94; Robinson 43; Ritchie 16 1/2; Bryan of Nebraska six.

Governor Ralston of Indiana, whose vote had been around 33 for two days, climbed rapidly as the offensive for his nomination was started. He rose to 63 on the fifty-first ballot and to 94 on the fifty-third ballot, but no likelihood of a spontaneous trend toward him was in evidence.

TODAY'S TREND IS SHOWN IN BALLOT RECORD

Total 44th ballot: McAdoo 484 4-10; Smith 319 1-10; Davis of West Virginia 71; Underwood 39; Cox 54; Glass 24; Ralston 31; Robinson 44; Ritchie 17 1-2; Davis of Kansas two; Walsh one; Saulsbury six; Owen four; Edwards of New Jersey one; total 1,098.

North Dakota delegates still continued to split their vote, giving five to McAdoo and five to Smith.

Total 46th ballot: McAdoo 483 4-10; Smith 319 1-10; Davis of West Virginia 73; Underwood 37 1-2; Cox 54; Glass 24; Ralston 31; Robinson 44; Ritchie 16 1-2; Walsh one; Saulsbury six; Owen four; Davis of Kansas three. Total 1,098.

Total 47th ballot: McAdoo 486 9-10; Smith 319 1-10; Davis of West Virginia 71; Underwood 38 1-2; Cox 54; Glass 24; Ralston 31; Robinson 44; Ritchie 16 1-2; Walsh one; Saulsbury six; Owen four; Davis of Kansas three. Total 1,098.

Total 48th ballot: McAdoo 483 4-10; Smith 321; Davis of West Virginia 70 1/2; Underwood 38 1/2; Cox 54; Glass 25; Ralston 31; Robinson 44; Ritchie 16 1/2; Davis of Kansas two; Walsh one; Saulsbury six; Owen four. Total 1,098.

Total 49th ballot: McAdoo 482 1/2; Smith 320 1/2; Davis of West Virginia 63 1/2; Underwood 42; Cox 53; Glass 25; Ralston 31; Robinson 45; Ritchie 16 1/2; Davis of Kansas two; Walsh one; Saulsbury six; Owen four. Total 1,098.

Total 50th ballot: McAdoo 461 1/2; Smith 320 1/2; Davis of West Virginia 64; Underwood 42 1/2; Cox 54; Glass 24; Ralston 31; Robinson 44; Ritchie 16 1/2; Davis of Kansas two; Walsh one; Saulsbury six; Owen four. Total 1,098.

Total 51st ballot: McAdoo 442 1-2; Smith 328; Davis of West Virginia 47 1-2; Underwood 43; Cox 55; Glass 25; Ralston 31; Robinson 43; Ritchie 16 1-2; Davis of Kansas two; Walsh one; Saulsbury six; Owen four. Total 1,098.

Total 52nd ballot: McAdoo 412 1-2; Smith 320 1-2; Davis of West Virginia 59; Underwood 39 1-2; Cox 54; Glass 24; Ralston 31; Robinson 42; Ritchie 16 1-2; Walsh one; Saulsbury six; Owen four; Gov. Bryan of Nebraska six; Battle 20. Total 1,098.

The fifty-third ballot included Smith 320 1-2; Davis, West Virginia 83; Underwood 42 1-2; Cox 54; Glass 25; Saulsbury six; Owen four; McAdoo 423 1-2; Ralston 94; Robinson 43; Ritchie 16 1-2; Bryan six.

On the 53rd ballot North Dakota again split, giving McAdoo and Smith five each.

There were little informal confabs in the convention leaders looking to a compromise. In this connection there was talk of Ralston and Cummings. Friends of Robinson were pressing his name in these conferences.

Pass Baltimore Record
Having passed the Baltimore record for consecutive balloting the convention went on to the 47th ballot. It developed that Senator Glass releasing his delegates, advised his friends on the delegation to vote for McAdoo. The anti-McAdoo men on the delegation, in the majority, contend that the delegation is instructed for Glass and he cannot bequeath it. They decline to permit a breakup at this time.

There was a movement in the Missouri delegation to give a complimentary vote on the next ballot to former Governor Gardner. That would involve a cut of 36 in the McAdoo strength, temporarily at least.

As the convention went into the 48th ballot, McAdoo delegates received a personal letter from their candidate urging them to stick for a while.

1852—Gen. Franklin Pierce of New Hampshire, named on 49th ballot at Baltimore.

1860—Sen. Stephen A. Douglas of Illinois, chosen on 59th ballot at Baltimore.

1912—Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, nominated on 46th ballot at Baltimore.

1920—Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, selected on 44th ballot at San Francisco.

The highest ballot record of the Republicans was in 1852 when the party was called Whig; and Gen. Winfield Scott was named on the 63rd ballot.

Madison Square Garden, July 3.—(By the A. P.)—Thomas Taggart today launched his long heralded offensive for the nomination of Ralston of Indiana by the Democratic national convention.

As the long succession of ballots approached the half-century mark the Indiana leader began to bring from under cover the votes he has been holding out until he was convinced the leaders had been eliminated.

The first result was that on the 49th ballot Ralston further crippled the McAdoo strength by taking the solid 20 votes of Mississippi.

The Indiana Senator also picked up five in Illinois and one in Minnesota, making his total 57 in place of the 31 given him on a long string of preceding ballots.

Taggart said he expected to ride the boom for all it was worth, hoping his man would prove the candidate on which the tightly deadlocked convention could unite as a compromise. At first the prospect was slow but Taggart did not appear to be discouraged.

The defection of Mississippi, following that of Oklahoma which earlier in the balloting, swung over to Senator Robinson of Arkansas, appeared to have materially crippled the McAdoo forces who were fighting for a majority in the hope that they could put over their man by abolishing the two-thirds rule.

On the 49th ballot the McAdoo total which had mounted to 500 last night, had fallen to 462 1-2.

Mean time Governor Smith was holding his own with 320 votes and most of the other candidates were running along as usual except for the gain for Robinson resulting in Oklahoma's departure from the McAdoo camp. While the voting went on, W. G. McAdoo held several conferences with his advisers and carefully outlined a strategy which he still insisted would result in his nomination. He told his friends efforts should be made to make Smith forces disclose their strength and, while he knew that the opposition had little reservoirs of strength here and there among the delegates, that when the Smith showdown came it would result in reaction.

There were little informal confabs in the convention leaders looking to a compromise. In this connection there was talk of Ralston and Cummings. Friends of Robinson were pressing his name in these conferences.

BRYAN TELLS OF OBJECTION TO J. W. DAVIS

Fine Man But no Difference Between Him and Coolidge, Commoner Says

McADOO MEN WORRIED

New York, July 2.—Wm. Jennings Bryan, in a statement dictated last night, continued earlier reports that he had taken a firm stand in opposition to John W. Davis as a candidate for president.

Mr. Bryan said he was opposed to Mr. Davis because of his corporate connections. He added that he had made no plan to take the floor against Mr. Davis, his nomination seemed imminent.

"I have no personal objection of any kind to Mr. Davis," Mr. Bryan said. "He is a man of high character. So is Mr. Coolidge. There is no difference between them."

"Mr. Davis' present employment would be a fatal handicap to him in a presidential race. He would carry a single state west of Pennsylvania."

"In answer to the statement that he had a right to practice law and take clients representing big business, he has a perfect right to do so but when an attorney accepts a campaign he accepts all the necessary obligations and the publicity is not an accessory which goes with that sort of business."

McAdoo goes to bed.

While the tides of his political fortune ebbed and flowed in the great auditorium across the street, William G. McAdoo last night sat in a hotel room opposite Madison Square Garden to hear the radio tell the story of how his vote was going.

The candidate came to the hotel to be near the garden and he in position for quick and easy conference with his managers. During the evening his managers received emissaries who wanted to open negotiations to have Mr. McAdoo say within he would favor the nomination if he could not get it for himself. The invariable reply was that Mr. McAdoo was still a candidate for tonight's session anyway and any thought of deals would not be in order.

Plainly the McAdoo managers regarded the falling vote for McAdoo as bad for them and made no secret of it. They were hoping that some of the delegations which have come to other candidates might return when they find no place to fight.

While the other candidate comes dangerously close to the McAdoo delegates, his managers propose to have on hoping that another formidable candidate will be developed and that the departing delegations will return.

DATES FIXED FOR CEREMONY

Coolidge and Dawes to be Notified July 24 and 31

Washington, July 2.—Dates for formal notification of President Coolidge and Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice president candidate, of their nomination by the Cleveland convention were fixed for July 24 and 31, respectively.

The ceremonies will mark the formal opening of the Republican campaign and plans for them were announced after a White House luncheon and conference attended by President Coolidge, General Dwight M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, and Frank W. Stearns, personal friend of the president.

Notification of Mr. Coolidge will be at the White House where he expects to remain during most of the campaign, while the exercises for Mr. Dawes will be at his home in Evanston, Ill.

PLAN MEMORIAL TO BISHOP

Daniel Sylvester Tuttle, Who For 40 Years was Bishop of Episcopal Church

St. Louis, July 1. (A. P.)—A national memorial to the late Daniel Sylvester Tuttle, Episcopal bishop of Missouri for almost 40 years, and presiding bishop of the Episcopal church of the United States for more than 20 years, is to be erected in St. Louis in connection with the Christ Church Cathedral, Bishop Tuttle's church for many years.

The Bishop Tuttle Memorial building will replace the old parish house which has proved inadequate for the large program of church and community work of the cathedral.

The memorial will not be limited to community and diocesan service. As the old parish house was used for various national conferences of the church, so will the new building, with its large auditorium, be offered to the National Council for convention and conferences when desired.

The memorial will be connected with the first Episcopal church established west of the Mississippi River, and in a parish which is more than 100 years old in the heart of St. Louis. It will also contain conference rooms, large gymnasium, swimming pool, library and a radio station for broadcasting.

Bishop Tuttle, although a man of wide learning, and one upon whom many honors had been bestowed, was a man of great simplicity, beloved by all those with whom he was associated.

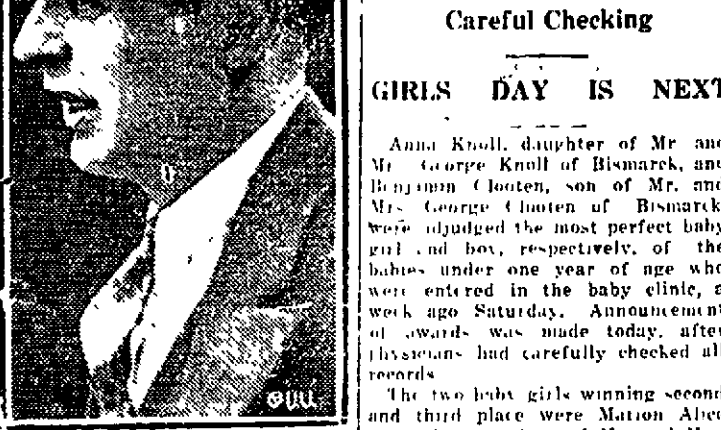

A fine response to a "big gift campaign" will be made.

NEW YORK STARTS OWN BROADCASTING

Finds Way to Overcome Interference of Tall Steel Buildings

By NEA Service.

New York, July 2.—New York is ready to broadcast news, lectures and other entertainment from its own station.

According to a letter from Lawrence A. Whalen, commissioner of plant and structure, to secretary of Commerce Hoover, applying for a license and bill letter, the new municipal station will be the largest of its kind in the world.

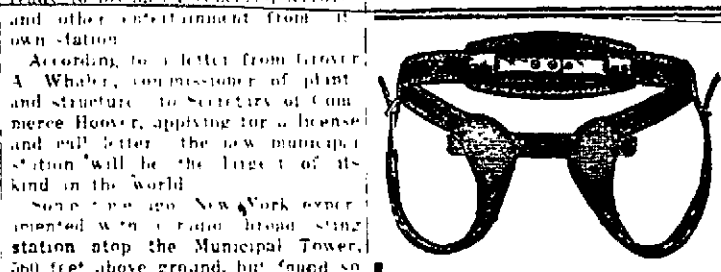

The station, which New York never intended with a radio broadcast station atop the Municipal Tower, 300 feet above ground, but found so many interfering difficulties that the station had to be abandoned. Further experimenting by New York engineers finally have resulted in a way out.

The engineers have found that the tall structure itself has a natural wave length of about 400 meters. If New York, they decided, could get a higher wave length assigned to it, broadcasting could be effected despite the interference of surrounding tall steel buildings.

Whalen has therefore asked for a wave length of 275 meters, which would also be well out of range of other Class B stations. The call letters may be WNY, the first letter being the designing initial for United States stations, and the last three being in initials of the City of New York.

"This station will have a distinct governmental function to perform," says Whalen, "in the protection of the lives and property of its citizens through its fire and police departments, and the promotion of the health, education and welfare of the community at large."

"Elaborate plans are nearing completion to enable the citizens of this city to hear addresses by the leading authorities broadcast by radio on Education, religion, health, finance, government and so on, because, after all, this municipality can secure the services of these men with greater ease than a private, commercially operated station."

FINDS FEEDING FOR CORN GOOD PAYING SOURCE

Farmer Living Near Jamestown Turns His Corn Into Hogs For Market

HOW HE SUCCEEDED

J. Harry Wilson, of Jamestown, North Dakota, turned eighteen acres of standing corn into 11,000 pounds of pork.

Mr. Wilson farms 355 acres three miles east of Jamestown, on the Northern Pacific Ry. He bought the place four years ago and in that short time has built a good dairy farm. He also raises hogs and poultry. Although he made his start at what seemed like an unfavorable time, he is well satisfied with the results of his four years' work in North Dakota.

"I do not claim to have made a record when I produced 11,000 pounds of pork from 18 acres of standing corn," he said. "But when you consider that it saved all the work of harvesting the corn, I was way ahead."

"On September 15, 1923, I turned 100 hogs, weighing an average of 91 pounds apiece, into 18 acres of flint corn to 'hog it off.' On Nov. 17, these hogs were put over the scales and averaged 101 pounds, so that the average gain was 100 pounds per hog—62 days. These hogs sold in South St. Paul, netting $0.85 per hundredweight, which paid me $85 for the feed corn. But there was corn still left in the field and as the winter was mild I pastured 23 head of hogs on it until May 10, so that the herd has been carried safely over the winter and I am certain that I got at least 11,000 pounds of pork from that piece of corn."

"When I came from Salina, Kan. four years ago, I had no dairy cow, but I was not here long until I saw that I must have them if I was to make a sure income," he told a writer for the Northern Pacific.

"So I went to the National Dairy show and then I bought a carload."

NAME WINNERS OF PRIZES FOR COUNTY BABIES

Results of Baby Show in Bismarck Announced After Careful Checking

GIRLS DAY IS NEXT

Anna Knoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Knoll of Bismarck, and Benjamin Clouten, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Clouten of Bismarck, were adjudged the most perfect baby girl and boy, respectively, of the babies under one year of age who were entered in the baby clinic, a week ago Saturday. Announcement of awards was made today, after physicians had carefully checked all records.

The two baby girls winning second and third place were Marion Alice Schneider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Schneider of Bismarck, second, and Jean Knudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Knudson of Bismarck, third.

William Roy Woodworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Woodworth of Bismarck won second place for the boys, and Frank Lindstrom Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lindstrom of Bismarck won third.

Prizes of $5.00, $3.00, and $2.00 were given each of the babies winning first, second, and third places, respectively by the Bismarck Advertising Club. Folsom's Jewelry store gave a ring and Bonham's a pearl necklace to the best girl and the best baby boy.

Those on the committee in charge of the affair were A. C. Sorenson, R. E. B. J. Grady. The examining physicians were Dr. A. M. Brandt and Dr. R. W. Henderon.

The next big day under the auspices of the Advertising Club will be on Saturday, July 26—Girls Day. At a meeting of the club last night, at which representatives of the Business and Professional Women's Club were present, Mrs. George Harris, Miss Midge Runey and Mrs. Lottie B. Saville were named as a general committee in charge of Girls' Day activities.

"Last year I had 80 acres of corn. Besides the 18 acres I hogged off, I filled the silo and husked the rest. What I husked yielded 52 bushels to the acre, northwestern dent variety. I had 40 acres of oats, Swedish Select, which averaged 51 bushels to the acre and 25 acres of barley that went 30 bushels to the acre."

"I work strictly on the three-year crop rotation plan. To make it easier to follow, I have divided my land into three districts. The first year I grow corn, the second, oats or barley and the third, sweet clover. I sow white sweet clover at the rate of 10 pounds to the acre with my grain crop the second year. Then the next year I have a clover field for pasture and hay. Sweet clover behaves much like a weed because it will continue to come up year after year unless it is kept down. By planting corn immediately after the clover, I keep the ground cultivated and kill it out, so that it never becomes a nuisance as it is apt to do if it is followed by grain or other non-tilled crop."

Mrs. Wilson keeps two pens of chickens and her income from them is up to $350 a year.

Mute Messengers of a Nation

IN an underground telephone cable scarcely thicker than a man's wrist there are 2400 threadlike copper wires, each pair providing a path for instant speech.

These highways of the spoken word, buried beneath many an American city, are carrying thousands of voices simultaneously from office to factory and some from coast to coast.

If released from their copper carriers, these messages would sound a Babel, in which none could be heard. Confusion beyond description would reign if this unhindered speech, now hushed by science in tiny strands, were voiced aloud.

An average of 54,000,000 telephone conversations speed daily over the wires of the Bell System. By hundreds in cables, by dozens in the open wires, they travel in silence side by side, to find voice again only at their journey's end. Muted as they pass from telephone to telephone, they weave the pattern of the nation's life.

ROUNDUP AT MANDAN OPENS

Crowd on Opening Day Is Placed at 4,000

The second Mandan Roundup opened yesterday afternoon with an attendance of 4,000, it was announced today by officials.

The feature of the opening day was the attempt of Keith Shaffer of Glendive, Montana, to ride Tipperary, an outlaw horse which, it is said, has never been ridden. The crowd took one and three-quarters jumps and Shaffer landed on the earth.

There were entries from nine states in the riding contests, which continue through the Fourth of July to the last date. The programs start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The opening day's attendance, according to officials, was larger than last year.

Harry Cowan of Bakersfield, California, made the best time yesterday in steer bulldogging. Cowan got his steer and pinned him in 27 seconds.

NEW FILLING STATION HERE OPENED TODAY

The Texas Company's new gasoline filling station, on West Main street, was opened today to serve customers. Hugh McGarvey has been named manager of the station.

The station, of brick with a stucco exterior, is a neat place, will be lighted brightly at night, and has attractive drive ways. In addition to handling Texaco gasoline and oil products, the station will have a free air and water service, and will put in a grease rack for greasing cars having the forced lubricating system.

It is planned to have a grand opening of the station in a few days, when the finishing touches have been put on it. However, sales were being made today.

The station is located at the head of the Bismarck-Mandan concrete road.

FOREIGN WARS VETS ELECT

BOY SINKS IN PITCH; RESCUED

Devils Lake N. D., July 3.—Louis Hileman, 8, son of Martin H. Hileman, 11th street was playing about the old bluthtik water tank when he fell into the water. A watch of soft pitch caught his eye and his shoes sank delightfully into the yielding black pitch made soft by the sun.

Then Louis jumped up and down, the pitch felt good on his shoes as it yielded about them. And then the crust broke and Louis began to sink in to the pitch; to his ankles before he knew what had happened. He was trapped like a fly on fly paper.

His screams attracted passersby who attempted to pull the boy from the pitch. But the pitch, which at this time, held fast to the shoes and the boy could not be pulled free.

A crowd gathered and offered advice. By digging down into the sticky pitch Louis's shoes were untied from his feet and he was pulled free from the black hole that had been sucking him down like quick sand for almost an hour.

But Louis left his shoes in the pitch; for two strong men tried to pull them out and they resisted their efforts as though set in concrete.

DELEGATES ARE CHOSEN

Delegates at large to the American Legion national convention, to be held in St. Paul, elected at the closing session of the state convention in Mandan, follow:

Lyall B. Merry, Dickinson; Edward Kessler, Cavalier; Gene Vandendyne, Grand Forks; Dr. Kriedler, Wahpeton. Alternates were James Morris, Carrington; Howard DeLonge, Grand Forks; Turner and Turquist.

The delegates from each judicial district and their alternates were as follows, the first named being the delegate.

First District: Martin Hennon, Mayville; L. B. Larson, Kindred.

Second District: A. K. Hovind, Bottineau; J. R. Lowell, Madock.

Third District: J. E. Mow, Enderlin; Otis Bryan, Napoleon.

Fourth District: W. E. Cole, Bismarck; Joe Rubel, Spiritwood.

Fifth District: Harry Hart, Ray; Geo. M. Constance, Donnybrook.

Sixth District: A. J. Brandvik, Killdeer; Dave Thoro, Reader.

Third District: John Kennelly, Mandan, member dept. executive committee.

"I will win over your father yet, Lella."

"Oh, Ned, I sincerely hope so! But he has changed—he is not like the dear old papa, who used to enter into all our joys and sorrows. I can't understand it."

"I can," asserted Ned Walters bluntly. "Your father was a fine business man. He retired too early in life. Idleness never yet suited a nature like his. The result has been—hypochondria."

"Oh, dear!" uttered Lella Taylor dismally. "What a dreadful sounding name. Is this hypo—hypo—"

"Chondria, exactly," nodded Ned. "A disease? Not in the true sense. It's fancy, imagination, but its victim suffers. A business man like your father finds himself at leisure, nothing to work for, nothing to occupy his mind. Result: the megrims. He gets all kinds of ridiculous ideas in his head."

"Well, papa's seem to be a new disease every day. He is crabbed and cross to all of us. You are the last object of his aversion. He has forbidden you the house—oh, Ned, hurry! there is papa now."

Robert Taylor came into view as his daughter spoke. She and Ned had met clandestinely at the garden fence.

There was a hurried exchange of kisses. Pater familias, looking strong enough to meet a giant, but wearing a scowl and slouching along as if his feet had dead weights attached to them, came to the spot where his daughter stood.

"Lella, who was that?" he challenged sharply.

"Only a neighbor, papa," reported Lella demurely.

"What neighbor?"

"It was Ned—that is, Mr. Walters—oh, papa, dear, don't be angry!"

"You've heard me say," snapped out Mr. Taylor viciously, "if I learn of your meeting that young man again I'll—I'll lock you up."

"Yes, papa," said Lella meekly, and went into the house crying.

For a week the only consolation Lella had was a note from Ned, slipped under a loose stone near their favorite trysting place—the fence.

One day Mr. Taylor decided to walk to the bank to deposit a large amount of cash and some valuable securities he had received by express.

For a day he groaned, growled and complained about the dangerous experiment when he fustily started out on his mission, he gloomily predicted a possible fall in the street—a dizzy spell—the probable uselessness of his lame foot.

Three nights previous an attempt had been made to burglarize the Taylor home. The faithful dog that the intruder had kicked had scared the intruders away. His own pet ailment instead of that incident was in Mr. Taylor's mind, as he proceeded on his way.

Instantly, however, the latter flashed into his thoughts as he passed a vacant lot two blocks from home.

"Hands up!" sounded an ominous voice.

Three men had suddenly sprung into view from behind some shrubbery. One pointed a revolver at Mr. Taylor.

"Keep a look out," he directed one of his accomplices.

Then to the third: "Get away with the stuff," and the man addressed wrenched from the grasp of Mr. Taylor the portfolio he carried under his arm and started to move away.

"You keep quiet for a spell, or I'll bore a hole in you," threatened the first hold-up man.

He came a step nearer to his victim. Mr. Taylor was fairly terrified. However, the thought of being despoiled of over $10,000 in tangible property added a frantic desperation to the situation.

In pressing upon him the leader of the footpads trod upon his sore foot.

A roar issued from the sufferer. He saw blood, he grew reckless. A frenzied impulse swayed him.

Swinging one arm as in the days before he had acquired the whimsies of a nervous man, Mr. Taylor brought his fist with a sounding crack directly across the face of his captor. The man went head over heels to the ground.

The lookout sprang now at Mr. Taylor. The blood of the latter, however, was fairly up.

Whack!—he landed out that powerful arm of his again. He thrilled to realize the latent strength he had nursed. His second assailant went prostrate, stunned.

"Stop thief!" next yelled the retired merchant, and he put down the street after the fellow who had moved away with the booty.

The latter had been proceeding at a reasonable pace so as not to attract attention. The man turned the corner just as Ned Walters was coming around it.

"I told you I would win father over!" chuckled Ned that evening, seated in a hammock with Lella, a welcome guest and an accepted suitor now at the Taylor home.

Father was strutting around the garden in great fettle. He had rigged up a punching bag and marked out a running course back of the house.

"Son, Ned," he smiled expansively, "soon as I can get this extra fat off me, I'm going back into business again with you as a partner."

DEMANDED RANSOM FROM FRANKS

Ransom again has been demanded of Jacob Franks, father of Robert Franks, murdered Chicago schoolboy. This time the life of Josephine Franks, Robert's 17-year-old sister, was threatened. A letter, a crude imitation of the one sent Franks by Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, the boy's confessed slayers, asked $800. It said Josephine would be "killed in a manner worse than Robert" if the father refused to comply with the request. Detectives, at the appointed hour, took a decoy package to the place the money was supposed to be deposited. These three youths were arrested and later admitted, police say, they wrote the note. From left to right they are, Walter Derus, Ignatius Clomhor and Walter Boryca.

READY FOR MAIL FLIGHTS

Half Your Golf Is Played On Greens

By Joe Williams

Assembling all the available scores made during a full season's play at various clubs in the metropolitan district, a gentleman with statistical leanings and lots of leisure, developed the fact that the average golfer spends half of his time on the putting greens.

His research work revealed that of some 50,000 strokes played during the season 25,000 of them were made with the putter. This seems to answer definitely and finally the frequently asked question, "What is the most important shot in golf?"

At any rate, it is proof enough that if you can put you have mastered half the game.

There is good reason, too, to believe that these figures are a faithful presentation of the situation. Par is the yardstick by which perfection is measured in golf. Par for the average 18-hole course is 72. Par for the average hole, then, is four.

Continue to generalize, this gives you a drive and an approach to the green and two putts to hole out. The statistician's figures, therefore, were hardly necessary to prove that half the game is played on the greens.

A sure putting touch will do more to reduce scores than a straight drive or an unerring approach. Walter Travis is the only American who ever succeeded in winning the British amateur championship. This was because he could putt, and because he appreciated the extraordinary importance of putting.

The American was outdriven by every one of his opponents and mostly he was outplayed up to the green; but once he took the fair command of the situation. Seldom did he require more than the customary two putts and on a number of holes he was down with one putt.

Travis used a freak putter during this tourney, the Schenectady, a center-shafted implement with a curiously formed club head. That putter created a mild golfing war and was subsequently banned by the British.

It is not generally known, however, that Travis did not bring the Schenectady to England with him. Travis had been putting badly for a week before the championship and another American, visiting abroad, handed him the strange looking device. "Go ahead and try it. You can't do any worse than you say you've been doing," Travis tried it and made golf history.

WHITE ON BLACK
Black crepe de chine dresses are given an interesting touch by the use of white pearl buttons and button holes bound with white silk.

CREPES POPULAR
For mid-summer the crepes and chiffons come to the front. This season many of the loveliest ones are in plaids in tartan patterns or in black and white with just a touch of some vivid color.

WHITE ON RED
The bright red sweater or blazer jacket is most striking with the white silk skirt and the white felt hat.

COATS SHORT
Separate coats from Paris are very short and made of heavy white crepe with figures in black velvet appliqued over the surface.

COMBINATIONS
Colored lace frocks are frequently made up over a foundation of another color. Madonna blue over pink satin and yellow over orchid are two very popular combinations.

SANDALS
Sandals of colored alligator skin come up very high in the back and are hollowed out very low in front and have but a single strap across the instep.

COAT DRESSES
A coat dress for summer is of black and white plaid silk mohair, bound with red braid and equipped with white crepe de chine collars and cuffs.

For Congress—H. H. Aaker, first district, $4.90; O. B. Burtess $102.00.

German Theater's Have Conduct Law

Berlin, July 3. (A. P.)—A Berlin judge has formulated the limits of approval or disapproval of a play by a spectator as follows:

"If the management makes no preliminary announcement to the contrary, it must be assumed that it agrees tacitly to the old established custom that everybody who is so inclined may criticize the performance by signs of disapproval. Of course, the means adopted for expressing permissible artistic criticism must conform with middle-European customs. House keys and whistles are forbidden, for in the last analysis the theater is no field of battle where brute force decides the issue."

The ruling grew out of one of many law cases resulting from evictions from theaters of persons who were too noisy in their demonstrations.

WINS PRAISE FROM SOCIETY

London, July 3. (A. P.)—Isobel MacDonald, the premier's daughter, is winning commendation from society people for the way she has met the whirligig of royal ceremonies and stately hospitalities. Her simplicity and modesty have brought her through says one commentator; she models herself on no one and is just Isobel.

She is said to be developing into quite a society beauty too, but at the same time maintains the freshness and directness of the quiet Scottish girl, and is without the artificial mannerisms of many of London's society girls.

INDIANS ARE COMING HERE

First Real Genuine Indians To Visit This Section of the Country in Ten Years

The general public has not had the pleasure of viewing and visiting with the genuine Sioux Indians for over ten years. The passing of Buffalo Bill, took off the road the wild west show and with it the exhibiting of Indians. During the time, however, the rodeos and wild west contests throughout the country have grown to terrific proportions and are now regarded as the most profitable of all the amusements. At Madison Square Garden last year the rodeo receipts were close to a million dollars. New York went crazy over the wild west and at that there were no Indians present. Ponca Bill is bringing his cowboys and cowgirls together with the Indians to your very door and is going to present one of the most daring performances you have ever witnessed.

These Indians dress in their native garb and are quartered in the menagerie tent of the big circus where you can view them and even visit with them during the hour before the circus performance commences.

When you take into consideration that it is over ten years since you have had any traveling Indians in this section, it would seem that a child of six years, must now be sixteen years old and in all that time he has never viewed the real Americans. Every parent should take

SHIPPING INVESTIGATORS SAIL TODAY

To Study Foreign Maritime Conditions and Business Prospects for Board Vessels

New York, July 3.—Five members of the House committee investigating the Shipping Board, together with two Board commissioners and several officials of the Fleet Corporation, sailed from here today on the United States liner George Washington for an extended visit to European ports where hearings will be held and American government shipping officials examined regarding the prospects for obtaining business for Board vessels and maritime conditions in general.

Representative Cooper, Republican, Wis., is the only member of the committee that will not make the trip. The main body of officials include Representatives White, Maine; committee chairman, and Lehmann, N. J., Republicans, and Davis, Tenn.; Bankhead, Ala., and Connally, Texas, Democrats. Representative Lineberger, Republican, Calif., sailed last month for a world-wide shipping inspection tour and will join the other members of the committee on their arrival in Europe.

The committee is accompanied by Vice Chairman Plummer and Commissioner Haney, of the Shipping Board; Vice President Keene, of the Fleet Corporation, E. E. McNary, passenger traffic manager of the United States Lines; James Talbert, Board attorney who is assisting the committee in the preparation of data, and J. Frederick Richardson, special committee investigator. The latter also carries credentials to various European governments authorizing him to make investigations for the House committee investigating airtight.

The committee has not held any sessions for two or three weeks, although it has been busy preparing for the investigation abroad. To speed up its work it expects to hold hearings aboard the George Washington en route, probably hearing Vice President Keene and Mr. McNary.

Upon its return to this country the latter part of August or the first part of September a sub-committee will be appointed to continue hearings until such time as the committee feels it can make satisfactory and conclusive recommendations to Congress for a permanent merchant marine policy involving constructive suggestions for economy and ways to meet foreign competition.

Most of the committee sessions will be held in London where a large staff is maintained to carry on the work of the Fleet Corporation. The Shipping Board spends between $130,000,000 and $140,000,000 a year, much of which is spent in Europe where 300 American flag ships touch. As a big portion of the domestic merchant marine business is in the home of the foreign position, members explain, they feel it not wise to see for themselves what customs govern the foreign end and determine what discriminations, if any, are practiced.

FLOATING FAIR WILL CARRY GERMAN TRADE

Hamburg, Germany, July 3 (A. P.)—The first German floating fair will leave Hamburg July 30 on a voyage which will occupy ten months and take the fair-ship "Industrial" as far east as Yokohama. The ship is to give testimony to postwar German enterprise, and is to carry the "Made in Germany" label to distant points of Europe, and to Asia and Africa. If the experiment proves successful a second ship is to be outfitted for a trip to North and South America.

There will be room for 570 exhibitors on this floating fair ground and in addition a printing shop, banking facilities, stenographic rooms, post and telegraph, film and magic lantern service and a news bureau. The film service is to show German places of interest especially industrial towns and industrial processes.

It is planned that the floating fair shall stop from three to eight days in every harbor visited. The route is as follows: Helsingfors, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Southampton, Lisbon, Malaga, Barcelona, Palermo, Naples, Athens, Constantinople, Smyrna, Jaffa, Alexandria, Port Said, Aden, Karachi, Bombay, Madras, Calcutta, Rangoon, Penang, Delhi, Singapore, Batavia, Soerabaya, Macassar, Bangkok, Manila, Canton, Shanghai, Tientsin, Kobe, Vladivostok, Osaka, and Yokohama.

JAPANESE EDUCATOR SEEKS ACCORD

Would Promote Friendship With the People of America

Los Angeles, July 3.—(A. P.)—Friendship between America and Japan would be enhanced by the spreading in Japan of the information that the majority of American people are prejudiced against the Japanese, according to an opinion expressed here by Dr. Danjo Ebuna, president of the Doshisha University at Kyoto, Japan.

"If America, through her official and unofficial representatives in Japan, fails to broadcast this desirable information among the Japanese," said Dr. Ebuna, "then it is probable that my people, in view of recent events, will imagine that America is against them and will seek to unite the entire orient in a sentiment unfavorable to the occident. I regret the new difficulty that has arisen because of a possible misunderstanding between the American people and the Japanese."

Since Japan forsook the customs of the orient 70 years ago, the educator said, she has been following the ways of America as much as possible, politically, socially, economically, and even religiously, in spite of the fact that Japan's attitude toward western civilization was rewarded by the suspicion and hatred of China, Korea and other oriental countries.

"When Japan turned her face toward the occident, ill feeling sprang up between Japan and China," Dr. Ebuna asserted. "China considered Japan an imitator of the west, and Japan began to look upon China as a hopelessly reactionary nation. I am happy to say, however, that this ill feeling has largely disappeared and that China and Korea are adopting the ways of Japan."

"In their social life, as well as in other respects, I find that your American civilization has tended to elevate greatly the Japanese people and your criticism, as well as your sympathy, has contributed to their improvement."

EXCELLENT PICNIC GROUNDS. FIRE WORKS AND DANCING ALL EVENING.

ROUNDUP AT MANDAN OPENS

Crowd on Opening Day Is Placed at 4,000

The second Mandan Roundup opened yesterday afternoon with an attendance of 4,000, it was announced today by officials.

The feature of the opening day was the attempt of Keith Shaffer of Glendive, Montana, to ride Tip-trary, an outlaw horse which, it is said, has never been ridden. The horse took one and three-quarters jumps and Shaffer landed on the fifth.

There were entries from nine states in the riding contest, which continues through the fourth of July as last date. The programs start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The opening day's attendance, according to officials, was larger than last year.

Harry Cowan of Bakersfield, California, made the best time yesterday in a steer bulldozing. Cowan got his steer and pinned him in 27 seconds.

NEW FILLING STATION HERE OPENED TODAY

The Texas Company's new gasoline filling station, on West Main street, was opened today to serve customers. Hugh McGarvey has been named manager of the station.

The station, of brick with a stucco exterior, is a neat place, will be lighted brightly at night, and has attractive drive ways. In addition to handling Texaco gasoline and oil products, the station will have a free air and water service, and will put in a grease rack for greasing cars having the forced lubricating system.

It is planned to have a grand opening of the station in a few days, when the finishing touches have been put on it. However, sales were being made today.

The station is located at the head of the Bismarck Mandan concrete road.

FOREIGN WARS VETS ELECT

Minot, N. D., July 3.—Leo M. Finnegan of Minot was elected state commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at the closing sessions of the annual state convention of the organization at the local post headquarters in the Citizens bank building.

The new state commander is past commander of Minot Post No. 753 and succeeds B. C. Boyd of Grand Forks. Other state officers elected for the ensuing year were:

Senior vice-commander—J. D. Taylor, Grand Forks.

Junior vice-commander—Rasmus Jensen, Devils Lake.

Quartermaster—O. B. Christianson, Grand Forks.

Judge Advocate—James M. Hanley, Mandan.

Chaplain—W. C. Treumann, Grafton.

Council of administration: Austin F. Henry, Grand Forks; B. C. Boyd, Grand Forks; Frank L. Anders, Fargo; H. G. Proctor, Jamestown; and Peter G. Timbo of Devils Lake.

BOY SINKS IN PITCH; RESCUED

Devils Lake N. D., July 3.—Louis Hileman, 8, son of Martin H. Hileman, 11th street was playing about the old bitulink works near the electric plant. A patch of soft pitch caught his eye and his shoes sank slightly into the yielding black pitch made soft by the sun.

Then Louis jumped up and down, the pitch felt good on his shoes and he yielded about them. And then the crust broke and Louis began to sink in to the pitch; to his ankles before he knew what had happened. He was trapped like a fly in fly paper. His screams attracted passersby who attempted to pull the boy from the pitch. But the pitch, which had reached the boys knees by this time, held fast to the shoes and the boy could not be pulled free.

A crowd gathered and offered advice. By digging down into the sticky pitch Louis's shoes were untied from his feet and he was pulled free from the black hole that had been sucking him down like quick sand for almost an hour.

But Louis left his shoes in the pitch; for two strong men tried to pull them out and they resisted their efforts as though set in concrete.

DELEGATES ARE CHOSEN

Delegates at large to the American Legion national convention, to be held in St. Paul, elected at the closing session of the state convention in Mandan, follow:

Lyall B. Merry, Dickinson; Edward Kessler, Cavalier; Gene Vandendyne, Grand Forks; Dr. Kriedler, Wahpeton.

Alternates were James Morris, Carrington; Howard DeLonge, Grand Forks; Turner and Turnquist.

The delegates from each judicial district and their alternates were as follows, the first named being the delegate.

First District: Martin Henoen, Mayville; L. B. Larson, Kindred.

Second District: A. K. Hovind, Bottineau; J. R. Lowell, Maddock.

Third District: J. E. Mow, Enderlin; Otis Bryan, Napoleon.

Fourth District: W. E. Cole, Bismarck; Joe Rupp, Spiritwood.

Fifth District: Barry Hart, Ray; Geo. M. Constance, Dismouth.

Sixth District: A. J. Brandvik, Ellendale; Dave Thoro, Beeder.

Third District: John Kennelly, Mandan, member dept. executive committee.

NARROW BELTS

Very narrow belts of red leather are worn with white sport frocks, and frequently the same sort of a band is worn about the hat crown.

How Ned Won Father Over

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

"I will win over your father yet, Lella."

"Oh, Ned, I sincerely hope so! But he has changed—he is not like the dear old papa, who used to enter into all our joys and sorrows. I can't understand it."

"I can," asserted Ned Walters bluntly. "Your father was a fine business man. He retired too early in life. Idleness never yet suited a nature like his. The result has been—hypochondria."

"Oh, dear!" uttered Lella Taylor dismally. "What a dreadful sounding name. Is this hypochondria?"

"Chronidia, exactly," nodded Ned. "A disease? Not in the true sense. It's fancy, imagination, but its victim suffers. A business man like your father finds himself at leisure, nothing to work for, nothing to occupy his mind. Result: the melancholy. He gets all kinds of ridiculous ideas in his head."

"Well, papa's seems to be a new disease every day. He is crabbed and cross to all of us. You are the last object of his aversion. He has forbidden you the house—oh, Ned, hurry! there is papa now."

Robert Taylor came into view as his daughter spoke. She and Ned had met clandestinely at the garden fence.

There was a hurried exchange of kisses. Pater familias, looking strong enough to meet a giant, but wearing a scowl and slouching along as if his feet had dead weights attached to them, came to the spot where his daughter stood. "Lella, who was that?" he challenged sharply.

"Only a neighbor, papa," reported Lella demurely.

"What neighbor?"

"It was Ned—that is, Mr. Walters—oh, papa, dear, don't be angry!"

"You've heard me say," snapped out Mr. Taylor viciously. "I'll learn of your meeting that young man again I'll—I'll lock you up."

"Yes, papa," said Lella meekly, and went into the house crying.

For a week the only consolation Lella had was a note from Ned, slipped under a loose stone near their favorite trying place—the fence.

One day Mr. Taylor decided to walk to the bank to deposit a large amount of cash and some valuable securities he had received by express.

For a day he groaned, growled and complained about the dangerous experiment when he finally started out on his mission, he gloomily predicted a possible fall in the street—a dizzy spell—the probable uselessness of his lame foot.

Three nights previous an attempt had been made to burglarize the Taylor home. The faithful dog that his master had kicked had scared the intruders away. His own pet ailment instead of that incident was in Mr. Taylor's mind, as he proceeded on his way. Instantly, however, the latter flashed into his thoughts as he passed a vacant lot two blocks from home.

"Hands up!" sounded an ominous voice.

Three men had suddenly sprung into view from behind some shrubbery. One pointed a revolver at Mr. Taylor.

"Keep a look out," he directed one of his accomplices.

Then to the third: "Get away with the stuff," and the man addressed wrenched from the grasp of Mr. Taylor the portfolio he carried under his arm and started to move away.

"You keep quiet for a spell, or I'll bore a hole in you," threatened the first hold-up man.

He came a step nearer to his victim. Mr. Taylor was fairly terrified. However, the thought of being despoiled of over $10,000 in tangible property added a frantic desperation to the situation.

In pressing upon him the leader of the footpads trod upon his sore foot.

A roar issued from the sufferer. He saw blood, he grew reckless, a frenzied impulse swayed him.

Swinging one arm as in the days before he had acquired the whinies of a nervous man, Mr. Taylor brought his fist with a sounding crack directly across the face of his captor. The man went head over heels to the ground.

The lookout sprang now at Mr. Taylor. The blood of the latter, however, was fairly up.

Whack!—he landed out that powerful arm of his again. He thrilled to realize the latent strength he had nursed. His second assailant went prostrate, stunned.

"Stop thief!" next yelled the reduced merchant, and he put down the last after the fellow who had moved away with the booty.

The latter had been proceeding at a reasonable pace so as not to attract attention. The man turned the corner just as Ned Walters was coming around it.

"I told you I would win father over!" chuckled Ned that evening seated in a hammock with Lella, a welcome guest and an accepted suitor now at the Taylor home.

Father was strutting around the garden in great fettle. He had rigged up a punching bag and marked out a running course back of the house.

"Son, Ned," he smiled expansively, "soon as I can get this extra fat off me, I'm going back into business again with you as a partner." (© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

Timber on Pacific Coast

More than 50 per cent of all the remaining saw timber in the United States is in the three Pacific coast states.

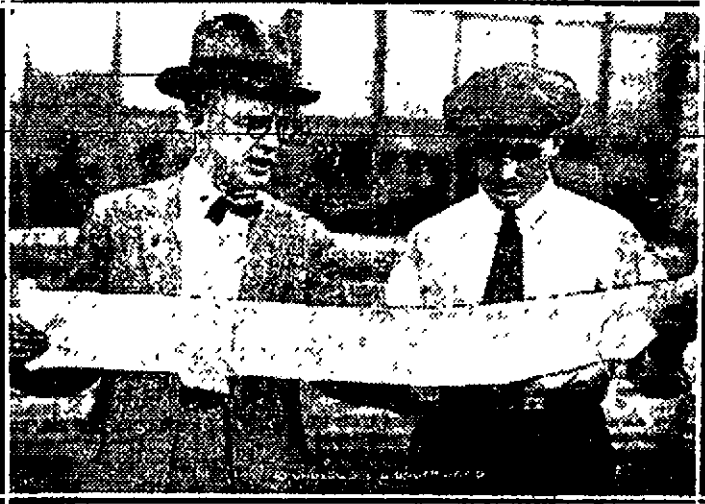

Six million customers and 155,000 orders by each day's mail is the record of America's largest mail order business.

DEMANDED RANSOM FROM FRANKS

Ransom again has been demanded of Jacob Franks, father of Robert Franks, murdered Chicago schoolboy. This time the life of Josephine Franks, Robert's 17-year-old sister, was threatened. A letter, a crude imitation of the one sent Franks by Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, the boys' confessed slayers, asked $30,000. It said Josephine would be killed in a matter worse than Robert's if the father refused to comply with the request. Detectives, at the appointed hour, took a decoy package to the place the money was supposed to be deposited. These three youths were arrested and later admitted, police say, they wrote the note. From left to right they are, Walter Deras, Ignatius Clomhor and Walter Boryca.

READY FOR MAIL FLIGHTS

Regular transcontinental air mail service started July 1. And the post-office department and the air mail pilots were ready. Here are Col. Paul Henderson, second assistant postmaster general, and O. D. Christner, field manager of Maywood Airfield, going over the plans.

Half Your Golf Is Played On Greens

By Joe Williams

Assembling all the available scores made during a full season's play at various clubs in the metropolitan district, a gentleman with statistical leanings and love of leisure, developed the fact that the average golfer spends half of his time on the putting greens.

His research work revealed that of some 50,000 strokes played during the season 25,000 of them were made with the putter. This seems to answer definitely and finally the frequently asked question, "What is the most important shot in golf?" At any rate, it is proof enough that if you can putt you have mastered half the game.

There is good reason, too, to believe that these figures are a faithful presentation of the situation. For is the yardstick by which perfection is measured in golf? Par for the average 18-hole course is 72. Par for the average hole, then, is four.

Continue to generalize, this gives you a drive and an approach to the green and two putts to hole out. The statistician's figures, therefore, were hardly necessary to prove that half the game is played on the greens.

A sure putting touch will do more to reduce scores than a straight drive or an unerring approach. Walter Travis is the only American who ever succeeded in winning the British amateur championship. Travis won because he could putt, and because he appreciated the extraordinary importance of putting.

The American was outdistanced by every one of his opponents and mostly he was outplayed up to the green; but once on the green he took full command of the situation. Sceldom did he require more than the customary two putts and on a number of holes he was down with one putt.

Travis used a Frank putter during this tourney. It's Schenectady, a center-shafted implement with a curiously formed club head. That putter created a mild golfing war and was subsequently banned by the British. It is not generally known, however, that Travis did not bring the Schenectady to England with him. Travis had been putting badly for a week before the championship and another American, visiting abroad, handed him the strange looking device. "Go ahead and try it. You can't do any worse than you say you've been doing," Travis tried it and made golf history.

WHITE ON BLACK

Black crepe de chine dresses are given an interesting touch by the use of white pearl buttons and button holes bound with white silk.

CREPES POPULAR

For mid-summer the crepes and chiffons come to the front. This season many of the loveliest ones are in plaids in tartan patterns or in black and white with just a touch of some vivid color.

WHITE ON RED

The bright red sweater or blazer jacket is most striking with the white silk skirt and the white felt hat.

COATS SHORT

Separate coats from Paris are very short and made of heavy white crepe with figures in black velvet appliqued over the surface.

COMBINATIONS

Colored lace frocks are frequently made up over a foundation of another color. Madonna blue over pink satin and yellow over orchid are two very popular combinations.

SANDALS

Sandals of colored alligator skin come up very high in the back and are hollowed out very low in front and have but a single strap across the instep.

COAT DRESSES

A coat dress for summer is of black and white plaid silk mohair, bound with red braid and equipped with white crepe de chine collars and cuffs.

SHELDON BROOKS A GRADUATE

The name of Sheldon Brooks of Painted Woods district No. 9 was omitted from the list of eighth grade graduates which was announced recently, but should have been included, according to Miss Madge Runey, county superintendent of schools, on revising the list.

EXPENSES IN PRIMARY TOLD

Candidates File Their Expense Accounts

Expenditures of candidates in the recent state-wide primary ranged from two cents to over $400, according to expense statements of candidates thus far filed. They include:

District judge candidates—Harry L. Berry, Mandan, $83.50; A. T. Cole, Fargo, $7.00; Chas. M. Cooley 5.50; J. A. Coffey $2.50; H. C. DePuy $137.21; Charles E. Wolfe $2.40; Harvey J. Miller $83.65; Wm. J. Kneeshaw $65.00; George M. McKenna $2.25.

State officers, Republican—George F. Shafer, Attorney-General, $323.50; R. A. Nestos, Governor, $282.50; John Siven, for Auditor, $445.00; John Langford, for treasurer, $266.43; Joseph Coghlan, for supreme court, $218.00; C. A. Fisher, for treasurer, $90.26; Tobias Cassey, for Democratic nomination, Attorney General, $10; J. V. Birder, for Democratic nomination, State Treasurer, $78.00; W. S. Hooper, for Democratic nomination, Commissioner of Insurance, $25.00; Halvor Halvorsen, for Democratic nomination, Governor, two cents for mailing petition.

For Congress—H. H. Asker, first district, $4.50; O. B. Burtenshaw $102.50.

German Theater's Have Conduct Law

Berlin, July 3. (A. P.)—A Berlin judge has formulated the limits of approval or disapproval of a play by a spectator as follows:

"If the management makes no preliminary announcement to the contrary, it must be assumed that it prices tickets to the old established custom that everybody who is so inclined may criticize the performance by signs of disapproval. Of course, the means adopted for expressing permissible artistic criticism must conform with middle-European customs. House keys and whistles are forbidden, for in the last analysis the theater is no field of battle where brute force decides the issue."

The ruling grew out of one of many law cases resulting from evictions from theaters of persons who were too noisy in their demonstrations.

WINS PRAISE FROM SOCIETY

London, July 3. (A. P.)—Isobel MacDonald, the premier's daughter, is winning commendation from society people for the way she has met the whirligig of royal ceremonies and state hospitalities. Her simplicity and modesty have brought her through says one commentator: she models herself on no one and is just Isobel.

She is said to be developing into quite a society beauty too, but at the same time maintains the freshness and directness of the quiet Scottish girl, and is without the artificial mannerisms of many of London's society girls.

SOFT ROLL

If you are not the type to wear tailored effects you can find many interesting cuts with soft roll collars that are much more flattering and just as effective.

LOUNGING ROBES

Lounging robes and negligees that must be used for traveling on shipboard are of the masculine cut of very fine but conservative looking silks, and guileless of frills or fussing.

BLACK HATS

Large black hats of milan or horse hair braid are given an interesting note by trimmings of black velvet poppies with huge yellow centers.

DEBUTANTES

Debutantes who have not bobbed hair, or who are letting it grow in, are wearing the very severe head dressing that is pulled back tightly from the brow and brushed until it achieves a high luster. At the nap of the neck it is gathered into a close bun.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

America's celebration of her natal day brings the usual Fourth of July noise-makers and sporting events. Occasionally it brings a meeting at which the more serious aspects of the day are considered, and these public meetings usually are to be found in the smaller towns and rural communities of the country. Too many thousands in cities throughout the country think of the Fourth of July as a holiday with fire-crackers and accidents.

The Fourth of July is Uncle Sam's birthday anniversary of our political independence. It came because the colonists wanted real freedom and were willing to sacrifice their lives for it. They built a great nation. It has endured and is today the most powerful on the earth. A once feeble Republic has set an example for the rest of the world. Individual expression of religious and political beliefs, taxation only with proper representation, control of the country's destinies from within—these were fought for by the colonists and they won them.

As a thought on a day of celebration, every citizen ought to consider the source of the Republic and the fundamentals guaranteed in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. A study of the history of the nation will make a better citizen of every one.

TIMELY WARNING REPEATED

The campaign for a safe and sane Fourth of July has achieved much success since it was inaugurated several years ago. Almost each year there has been a decrease in fatalities and serious injuries due to Fourth of July celebrations. But each year there is a long list of victims. Usually, of course, they are children. Often the injury is to the eyes. Certainly it would be far better to restrain a child's unbounded enthusiasm than to permit an accident which impairs the eye-sight. The National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness records that 224 children have suffered impaired eyesight since the last Fourth of July through accidents.

A safe and sane Fourth does not necessarily mean a dull celebration. It means that caution should be exercised at all times in the use of fireworks, and adult supervision of efforts of children will do much to decrease accidents.

THE DANGERS OF HOT-HEADS

A young Japanese has committed suicide as a protest against the American exclusion act. A body of Tokio students has "demonstrated" by breaking up an American dance.

A boycott against American imports, largely against goods listed as luxuries, is in progress.

Such acts are the acts of hot-heads. The Japanese government, thus far, has kept cool with Coolidge. But, it is possible for the acts of hot-heads to bring on war, no matter how cool officialdom remains, and America has hot-heads of her own.

Should the continued acts of hot-heads of Japan arouse anything like the anti-Jap sentiment prevailing in our Pacific coast states 10 years ago, there's no telling where the matter would end.

Unfortunately, but undisputedly, there are vicious elements on the Pacific coast that would take devilish pleasure in acts that might provoke war, at any time. Such elements are chronically opposed to peace, work and contentment and they should be kept under surveillance.

The great mass of coast people will keep cool with Coolidge on the Jap matter but there are a comparative few who are reckless enough to start anything.

ITALY

Italy is one country in Europe that's getting back to normal steadily. Her imports have been exceeding exports by around 360 million lire a month. But a year ago the excess was nearly twice as big.

This recovery is good for Italy. But it's a loss for America and other countries that have been collectively selling to Italy more than Italy has sold them. The saving feature is that, as a country gets back to normal, it buys more as well as sells more. The healthiest state is for every country's exports to balance its imports after paying interest on money borrowed abroad.

WORDS

The new Oxford dictionary, 40 years in the making, defines 425,000 different words.

It's estimated that the average person in his daily conversation uses only several hundred of these words.

People often are advised to "look up" every strange word they encounter in their reading. If they did, they'd go to the dictionary some 400,000 and more times. They wouldn't have time to do anything else. With a good stock of slang, highly impressive, most people can express all that's in them. Slang is short-hand talk.

SCHOOLS

It'd take 3000 million dollars to bring American schools up to top-notch efficiency in the matter of housing and equipment. This is shown by a government survey of the situation.

It's claimed there are a million children who are unable to attend schools full-time on account of shortage of accommodations, and eight millions attending in obsolete buildings.

FISH

Americans rank second as fishermen, taking 86 million dollars worth of seafood out of the ocean in a year. Japan is first, with 89 millions.

The world eats 1000 million dollars worth of fish yearly. A tremendous supply of food is going to waste in the ocean. Future generations will "farm" the sea as we now intensely farm the land. High price is the brake now.

OPPORTUNITY FOR N. DAK.

Later results of the state primary election have had an unexpected turn, favorable to the Independents. The latest information available is that the Independent candidates for attorney general, commissioner of agriculture and labor, state auditor, secretary of state and possibly a majority of both houses of the legislature have been nominated. The legislature however, is very close, and at this time it appears there will not be any great change from the lineup of two years ago, unless the November election decides otherwise.

The chief loss Independents have suffered is in the nomination for governor, as Mr. Sorlie nonpartisan candidate, has a safe majority of about 3,000 over Governor Nestos.

Governor Nestos was the victim of several campaign handicaps, among them the individual candidacy of I. J. Moe, who made a very effective appeal for economy in showing a large number of employees in all departments of the state government on the monthly payroll. This attracted attention and was intended, and no doubt did take votes from Governor Nestos.

The Independent forces were not entirely favored by the democrats of the state, in this primary contest, as they have been heretofore. The contest in the democratic ranks in which two candidates contended for the nomination of governor, took votes from the Independent column, as opposing the League candidate.

A general resentment by the farmers and businessmen of the state on the failure of the national republican administration to enact certain farm legislation, especially the McNary-Haugen bill, had its undoubted effect in the vote against Governor Nestos, who was held to represent the agencies that caused the dissatisfaction.

Mr. Nestos himself, no doubt contributed to the loss of votes by failing to measure up to the altitude which many of his former supporters expected of him, as governor, during two administrations and during two legislative assemblies.

But the governor had a hard task to restore normal conditions of government in state affairs, by removing obstacles and correcting conditions inherited from his league predecessor.

The primary election gives all political factions an unusual opportunity to accept the decision of the voters and join hands in an honest effort to improve the financial and industrial conditions in the state.

HISTORY

America's six hundred who rode to their death in the Battle of the Little Big Horn, commonly known as the "Custer Massacre," can vie for bravery with Tennyson's immortal six hundred in the English light brigade, declares Olin D. Wheeler, historian of the Northern Pacific railway.

June 25 was the 46th anniversary of the famous battle, fought just a short distance south of Custer, Mont. Indians of the Crow agency commemorated the event with a three day Wild West stampede started in the morning and lasting until Wednesday night. The stampede was held at Garrison, two miles south of the battlefield, and the Indians held their dances each night. Recounting his visit to the battlefield in 1892 and his conversations with the few survivors of Custer's men, Mr. Wheeler said: "The Big Horn battle with their six hundred can easily vie with Balaklava and its six hundred in the Crimean war. The Custer battle has been mistakenly called a 'massacre' by many, but I do not believe this term can properly be applied to it. The slaughter came about in the course of a military campaign directed against the Indian antagonists. The year 1876 was one of the most thrilling in American history. The American Centennial exposition was on in Philadelphia. Then suddenly war broke out with the Indians in the Northwest. The outbreak was not unexpected and the government had been preparing for it for some time. Supplies for the troops were rushed in over the Northern Pacific railroad which was then completed to Bismarck and Mandan, N. D."—Valley City Times Record.

"Look down there at those tall trees, said Johnny Jump Up suddenly. 'Fly down a little closer, Tommy! Now can you see?' " "Telling the way bananas grow," said the fairy. "Only they aren't really upside down at all. When you see them in the stores they are upside down—the bunches are."

"And now we are coming to another forest with still more queer trees," said Johnny Jump Up. "I wonder if you can guess their name? It is only the sap of the tree that is useful."

"Maple trees," shouted Nancy and Nick.

"No," said Johnny. "But they get the ones it is made out of. Vanilla, I mean. A bean grows on it and the vanilla flavoring is made out of that. Coffee grows in Mexico, too, and cotton and sugar, and most everything, I guess. Besides its gold and silver mines are about the best in the world. And you'd be surprised at the lovely jewels found in the ground here. Opals, turquoises, emeralds and everything."

"Mexico is a great country," said Nick.

"It is!" said Johnny. "Home, now, Tommy, if you please."

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Mexico is different from any place we have ever been," said Johnny Jump Up to the Twins, as they flew along on Tommy Titmouse's back.

"Down there is a mahogany forest," said Johnny. "See how very large the trees are. Some are so big that twenty men holding hands can hardly reach around them."

"We don't have mahogany trees in America, do we?" asked Nick.

"No," said Johnny Jump Up, "at least not in the part of America that we live in."

"Mahogany wood is so fine," said the fairy, "that it is very expensive. It is used to make furniture, and only the finest furniture at that. If you have any tables or chairs in your house that are sort of a dark red color, no doubt it is mahogany."

Tommy Titmouse flew on with the three little adventurers.

"Look down there at those tall trees, said Johnny Jump Up suddenly. 'Fly down a little closer, Tommy! Now can you see?'"

"Telling the way bananas grow," said the fairy. "Only they aren't really upside down at all. When you see them in the stores they are upside down—the bunches are."

"And now we are coming to another forest with still more queer trees," said Johnny Jump Up. "I wonder if you can guess their name? It is only the sap of the tree that is useful."

"Maple trees," shouted Nancy and Nick.

"No," said Johnny. "But they get the ones it is made out of. Vanilla, I mean. A bean grows on it and the vanilla flavoring is made out of that. Coffee grows in Mexico, too, and cotton and sugar, and most everything, I guess. Besides its gold and silver mines are about the best in the world. And you'd be surprised at the lovely jewels found in the ground here. Opals, turquoises, emeralds and everything."

"Mexico is a great country," said Nick.

"It is!" said Johnny. "Home, now, Tommy, if you please."

MOVIES DISCOVER WILD MEN AT 700 MILES FROM HOLLYWOOD

By Jack Jungmeyer
NEA Service Writer

Los Angeles, July 3.—The last of the barbarous races of North America have been shot by the motion picture camera. They are the Seris Indians, a mysterious ethnological fragment clinging in thinning numbers to the rocky island of Tiburon in the Gulf of California.

Although Tiburon is less than 700 miles from Los Angeles and Hollywood, observers from these illustrious cities declare its denizens are thousands of years below the social level of the latter communities.

The origin of the Seris is obscure. They are believed to be older than the Aztecs. The tribe has been reduced to hundreds. This handful of natives, nevertheless, are feared by the warlike Yaqui Indians. Mexicans, under whose nominal rule they live, never visit them unless heavily armed.

The motion picture expedition was sent by Paramount, and after considerable hardships brought back the first film record from the island.

Heading the party was Jesse L. Lasky, vice president of the company, who relates the following encounters with Indians.

"We reached Tiburon nine days after leaving Yuma, Ariz. Canoes loaded with natives and headed by Chief Juan Thomas came alongside our boat.

"The chief, presenting ancient Mexican credentials, assured us his followers were all nice boys and had no weapons except knives, which were visible at their belts. Their faces were decorated in designs of white bird lime.

"They returned to the shore on our promise to land the next day with plenty of gifts. All night the beach echoed with their tom toms, and they could be seen dancing about fires.

"Tales of cruelty credited to the Seris have too much foundation to be disregarded.

"They were, until recently, believed to be cannibals. They have no agriculture, depending on fish and turtles for food. They eat the flesh uncooked. They are unspeakably filthy and perhaps the lowest type of humans on the globe.

"We carried ashore many gifts. While they tasted the Seris were very friendly. When gifts failed, they tried to pull coats off our backs. The skipper, understanding their patois, advised us to escape, as the natives were planning mischief. While they were squabbling over presents we got under way, having already shot several thousand feet of film.

"Angered natives pursued us in quickly outdistanced canoes. 'On the way from Tiburon to Quaymas, we suffered for lack of fresh water. The trip inland to the Seris Springs seemed too hazardous to risk.

"Three days from the time I was surrounded by half-starved savages I was again at my desk in Hollywood."

HARDEST JOB OF ALL

By Albert Apple

Years ago the slogan of business was, "Let the buyer beware." There were few exceptions. The general attitude was that business was a battle of wits, cunning against cunning, and that profit could only be made at someone else's loss.

Traveling salesmen in those days were concerned only with getting a buyer's name on the dotted line. Once they had his signature, he had to accept the shipment or get sued.

That time is gone. For it's now realized that a dissatisfied customer doesn't come back a second time. Business used to exist mainly for the first order. Now it's out for repeat orders—to build up a lasting patronage. And its policy accordingly is based on giving full satisfaction. Concerns frequently accept a loss rather than displace a customer.

The Chesapeake & Ohio sends this slogan to its railroad employees: "The customer is always right." The idea is that a railroad sells service and that the buyer of service is entitled to the same courteous and satisfactory treatment that he would get in a store. That's correct.

The customer, of course, is NOT always right—not by a long shot. But the general attitude, that he is always right and assures him of a square deal in cases where he is right and the seller wrong.

The hardest job in the world is handling the public—selling goods or service. The average person is never quite as unreasonable as when he is spending his money, particularly for necessities. The industries that sell him his amusement have him pretty well cowed.

The way a courteous and obliging clerk is imposed on and backed at by some customers is enough to make the blood of any fair-minded person boil.

These human beings who sell us store goods, railroad tickets and the like—let us keep in mind that they are human, not just business automatons, and that the sharp and unreasonable word stings them as much as it would us.

The campaign for courtesy in handling the public is fine enough. But it's about time we had some campaigns for courtesy by the public in its dealings with clerks and other agents of business. Most modern business transactions are mutually profitable. Both sides should be fair and kind.

The Tangle

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHERTON TO BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

Hope you can come early next week for your visit, dear Bee. Leslie called me yesterday to tell me that she was going to celebrate her wedding anniversary the last of next week, and wanted me to add my plea to her's that you would surely be here for that interesting occasion.

Just why any one should want to celebrate a wedding anniversary is something I cannot fathom. Any anniversary is bad enough. Any wedding anniversary is the worst of the bunch. I'd rather have a birthday party, and Lord knows my birthdays have been shoved into the discard for quite a few years now.

You would laugh, Bee, if you could see his Royal Highness, John Alden Prescott, these days. He's an entirely different man since his wife came home. From his actions you would think that he felt he had done some terrible thing in inviting me out to dinner a few times while his wife was away. Since her return he has gone away glumly every day to eat his luncheon alone, and every time he has passed me and said: "I'm going to luncheon, Mrs. Atherton," he's given me a queer little look out of the tail of his eye as though he were speculating as to whether I had expected him to ask me to lunch, and was disappointed because he didn't do it.

I get enough of him during the day when he is in this capacious mood without having to entertain him during the luncheon hour.

I went up to the house the other night to look on Leslie, and she seemed some sort of constraint in her manner, not toward me, but toward her husband. I wonder if she has anything on her mind?

While I was there Ruth Ellington came in. I don't think you have met her. I was again struck by her cleverness. She seems to be able to wind Leslie around her little finger, at least Leslie has unbounded admiration for her business ability—a business ability which rather tickles my vanity. It's a wonder Jack Prescott has any use for me in his office, as from what he said the other night I could see he thought no woman was capable of doing business on a large scale.

Ruth Ellington has demonstrated that she can do this, and with an investment that was nothing more than a shoe string. She takes a strange delight in informing Mr. Prescott how her business is growing.

I didn't stay very long. Either Leslie or Mr. Prescott is very interesting and amusing, taken alone, but when they are together they are impossible—at least for me.

I don't think I care much for little journeys to the homes of my wedded friends. I wonder if when you marry Dick Summers, Bee, I'll have to cut you out of my friendship book? I hope not, for I know there are too few names there already.

Come down, dear. I think I need you, for I feel that I am getting rather more cynical than usual. But whatever else I may do, whatever else I may think, I know that I love you and I never have a cynical thought where you are concerned.

Were I as base as is the lowly plam,
And you, my Love, as high as heaven above,
Yet should the thoughts of me your humble swam
Ascend to heaven, in honor of my Love?
Were I as high as heaven above the plain,
And you, my Love, as humble and as low,
As are the deepest bottoms of the main,
Wheresoe'er you were, with you my love should go.
Were you the earth, dear Love, and I the skies,
My love should shine on you like to the sun,
And look upon you with ten thousand eyes
Till heaven wax'd blind, and till the world were done.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE

"Hold Your Breath" which will be shown at the Eltinge theatre, Friday and Saturday, is a feature done in the same tempo as the short comedies. Unlike most feature comedies, it has a good story as a basis for the humor. It is a tale of a girl who sets out to hold down her brother's repertorial job and does—although she rouses the whole town and almost breaks her neck before she succeeds.

The cast is comprised of an array of well known players. Dorothy Dore, the irrepressible little star of a multitude of comedies, is the girl. Walter Hiers plays her well-meaning fiancé and Tully Marshall is seen as the Eccentric Collector. Jimmy Adams, Jimmie Harrison, Priscilla Bonner, Lincoln Plumer, Ross Gore, Jay Belasco, George Pierce, Victor Rodman, Budd Pine, Eddie Baker and Douglas Carter comprise the remainder of the cast.

If you want a good time or are seeking for excitement go to the Eltinge Theatre and "hold your breath."

AT THE CAPITOL

Can you imagine the feelings of a band of super-crooks when they escape from the hounds of law and hide in a deserted cabin on the thirteenth day of the month, with thirteen pieces of jewelry and a black cat for company? That is one of the features that add impartially to drama and humor in the Universal-Jewel production starring Priscilla Dean, "White Tiger" which comes to the Capitol theatre beginning tomorrow. Wallace Beery, Raymond Griffith and Matt Moore have the principal supporting roles. Tod Browning is the author and director.

Teny's Snowball

Now you may think you are going to have a winter story right in the middle of the summer.

But no, this is not to be a winter story. This is not to be a story of a snowball such as you make out of the snow in the winter time. Teny's snowball was not a snowball at all. Her snowball was a little white shaggy dog.

He looked white and pretty.

So white and clean.

And the only thing she could think of that was as white as this little dog was a snowball made right after a fresh fall of snow.

So she named him Snowball. At times now he became quite dirty, playing of course as he did.

But every time after he was given a bath he looked so white and pretty again.

When Teny's mother was ill Snowball was very sad. For Snowball loved all of the family.

He sat by Teny's mother's chair and put his little shaggy head over her foot and looked at her so sorrowfully.

"You're sorry I'm sick, aren't you, Snowball?" Teny's mother asked him.

"You know something is wrong and that I'm not well, don't you?"

And Snowball knew. For he was quite contented to sit like that and to stay in.

He was a sad little dog when a member of his dear family was ill. But Teny's mother was all well again before long, and oh, such a gay, happy little dog as was Snowball.

He went for a long run and walk with Teny and he didn't believe he had ever enjoyed a walk so much. Snowball liked to run. He was very fond of food. If a caller came to the house he would sniff about to see if the caller possibly had a piece of candy in his or her pocket. Little girl and boy visitors he liked best, as they were so apt to have a piece of candy for Snowball.

When dinner was being prepared Snowball would watch what was going on and he would enjoy a little taste of something now and again.

When the potatoes were being peeled he liked to have a taste of potato—just plain. It made him feel so much a part of the family.

Whenever anyone spoke to him he wagged his tail, and if he happened to be sitting on the floor his tail would thump, thump against the floor.

He used to speak in this way and he never forgot to speak when someone spoke to him.

What a splendid life he led! Plenty of food, plenty of fresh air, a loving family, good walks, delicious bones, friendly dogs in the neighborhood and little Teny who loved him.

And, too, Teny's mother, who had been so sick and over whom he had watched.

was now well again.

Ah, you can't say little Snowball didn't understand.

When there was trouble he understood and was sure and his eyes under his shaggy, overhanging hair almost seemed to weep with the sorrow he felt.

When there was rejoicing no one was sadder and happier than Snowball.

So he went along very pleasantly. He had no worries now. Only pleasures.

What more could a little shaggy white dog ask for than a devoted family, a devoted mistress such as Teny was, and a beautiful home?

A little shaggy white dog could ask for nothing more. Yes, Snowball was very, very happy.

Bobbed hair styles changing again. Madame Louise, Chicago hair dresser of authority, presents to the world her new "Merry Widow" bob. The name of the headress does not limit it to the husbandless, and even school girls have their locks short to the new lines.

Miss Agnes Verne, recently "merry-widowed" by the hairdresser, shows how it looks front and back.

LOVE'S OMNIPRESENCE

Were I as base as is the lowly plain,
And you, my Love, as high as heaven above,
Yet should the thoughts of me your humble swain
Ascend to heaven, in honor of my Love?
Were I as high as heaven above the plain,
And you, my Love, as humble and as low,
As are the deepest bottoms of the main,
Wheresoe'er you were, with you my love should go.
Were you the earth, dear Love, and I the skies,
My love should shine on you like to the sun,
And look upon you with ten thousand eyes
Till heaven wax'd blind, and till the world were done.
Wheresoe'er I am, below, or else above you,
Wheresoe'er you are, my heart shall truly love you.

AT THE MOVIES
"Hold Your Breath" which will be shown at the Eltinge theatre, Friday and Saturday, is a feature done in the same tempo as the short comedies. Unlike most feature comedies, it has a good story as a basis for the humor. It is a tale of a girl who sets out to hold down her brother's rectorial job and does—although she rouses the whole town and almost breaks her neck before she succeeds.

The cast is comprised of an array of well known players. Dorothy Devore, the irrepressible little star of a multitude of comedies, is the girl. Jovial Walter Hiers plays her well-meaning fiancé, and Tully Marshall is seen as the Eccentric Collector.

Jimmy Adams, Jimmie Harrison, Priscilla Bonner, Lincoln Plumer, Rosa Gore, Jay Belasco, George Pierce, Victor Rodman, Budd Fine, Eddie Baker and Douglas Carter comprise the remainder of the cast.

If you want a good time or are itching for excitement go to the Eltinge Theatre and "hold your breath."

AT THE CAPITOL
Can you imagine the feelings of a band of super-crooks when they escape from the bounds of law and hide in a deserted cabin on the thirteenth day of the month, with thirteen pieces of jewelry and a black cat for company? That is one of the features that add impartially to drama and humor in the Universal Jewel production starring Priscilla Dean, "White Tiger" which comes to the Capitol theatre beginning to-morrow. Wallace Beery, Raymond Griffith and Matt Moore have the principal supporting roles. Tod Browning is the author and director.

Kiddies' Evening Story

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Teny's Snowball

Now you may think you are going to have a winter story right in the middle of the summer. But no, this is not to be a winter story. This is not to be a story of a snowball such as you make out of the snow in the winter time. Teny's snowball was not all snowball at all. Her snowball was a little white shaggy dog.

He looked white and pretty.

And the only thing she could think of that was as white as this little dog was a snowball made right after a fresh fall of snow.

So she named him Snowball.

At times now he became quite dirty, playing of course as he did. But every time after he was given a bath he looked so white and pretty again.

When Teny's mother was ill Snowball was very sad. For Snowball loved all of the family.

"He sat by Teny's mother's chair and put his little shaggy head over her foot and looked at her so sorrowfully.

"You're sorry I'm sick, aren't you, Snowball?" Teny's mother asked him.

"You know something is wrong and that I'm not well, don't you?"

And Snowball knew. For he was quite contented to sit like that and to stay in.

He was a sad little dog when a member of his dear family was ill. But Teny's mother was all well again before long, and oh, such a gay, happy little dog as was Snowball.

He went for a long run and walk with Teny and he didn't believe he had ever enjoyed a walk so much. Snowball liked to eat. He was very fond of food. If a caller came to the house he would sniff about to see if the caller possibly had a piece of candy in his or her pocket.

Little girl and boy visitors he liked best, as they were so apt to have a piece of candy for Snowball.

When dinner was being prepared Snowball would watch what was going on and he would enjoy a little taste of something now and again.

When the potatoes were being peeled he liked to have a taste of potato—just plain. It made him feel so much a part of the family.

Whenever anyone spoke to him he wagged his tail, and if he happened to be sitting on the floor his tail would thump, thump against the floor.

He used to speak in this way and he never forgot to speak when someone spoke to him.

What a splendid life he led! Plenty of food, plenty of fresh air, a loving family, good walks, delicious bones, friendly dogs in the neighborhood and little Teny who loved him.

And, too, Teny's mother, who had been so sick and over whom he had watched.

He was now well again.

Ah, you can't see the Snowball didn't understand.

When there was trouble he understood and was sad and his eyes under his shaggy, overhanging hair almost seemed to weep with the sorrow he felt.

When there was rejoicing no one was gayer and happier than Snowball.

So life went along very pleasantly. He had no worries now. Only pi assures.

What more could a little shaggy white dog ask for than a devoted family, a devoted mistress such as Teny was, and a beautiful home?

A little shaggy white dog could ask for nothing more. Yes, Snowball was very, very happy.

A Little Bran Is Good for You

if it is thoroughly mixed with a well-cooked cereal. Not one person in a hundred should eat raw bran. It is almost pure cellulose and is not digestible. All the bran you need to promote natural and healthful bowel movement is in Shredded Wheat. It is combined with the tissue-building, bone-making elements of the whole wheat grain, making it a perfect food for children and grown-ups. Two biscuits with milk make a nourishing meal.

Prevents Decay of Teeth

I often have occasion to recommend to my patients your Shredded Wheat. They furnish the roughage needed to relieve constipation. I find they are an alkaline food, and one or two eaten just before going to bed will neutralize the fluids of the mouth and help prevent decay of the teeth.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

INDEPENDENCE DAY
America's celebration of her natal day brings the usual Fourth of July noise-makers and sporting events. Occasionally it brings a meeting at which the more serious aspects of the day are considered, and these public meetings usually are to be found in the smaller towns and rural communities of the country. Too many thousands in cities throughout the country think of the Fourth of July as a holiday with fire-crackers and accidents.

The Fourth of July is Uncle Sam's birthday anniversary of our political independence. It came because the colonists wanted real freedom and were willing to sacrifice their lives for it. They built a great nation. It has endured and is today the most powerful on the earth. A once feeble Republic has set an example for the rest of the world. Individual expression of religious and political beliefs, taxation only with proper representation, control of the country's destinies from within—these were fought for by the colonists and they won them.

As a thought on a day of celebration, every citizen ought to consider the source of the Republic and the fundamentals guaranteed in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. A study of the history of the nation will make a better citizen of every one.

TIMELY WARNING REPEATED
The campaign for a safe and sane Fourth of July has achieved much success since it was inaugurated several years ago. Almost each year there has been a decrease in fatalities and serious injuries due to Fourth of July celebrations. But each year there is a long list of victims. Usually, of course, they are children. Often the injury is to the eyes. Certainly it would be far better to restrain a child's unbounded enthusiasm than to permit an accident which impairs the eye-sight. The National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness records that 224 children have suffered impaired eyesight since the last Fourth of July through accidents.

A safe and sane Fourth does not necessarily mean a dull celebration. It means that caution should be exercised at all times in the use of fireworks, and adult supervision of efforts of children will do much to decrease accidents.

THE DANGERS OF HOT-HEADS
A young Japanese has committed suicide as a protest against the American exclusion act. A body of Tokio students has "demonstrated" by breaking up an American dance.

A boycott against American importations, largely against goods listed as luxuries, is in progress.
Such acts are the acts of hot-heads. The Japanese government, thus far, has kept cool with Coolidge. But, it is possible for the acts of hot-heads to bring on war, no matter how cool officialdom remains, and America has hot-heads of her own.

Should the continued acts of hot-heads of Japan arouse anything like the anti-Jap sentiment prevailing in our Pacific coast states 10 years ago, there's no telling where the matter would end.

Unfortunately, but undisputably, there are vicious elements on the Pacific coast that would take devilish pleasure in acts that might provoke war, at any time. Such elements are chronically opposed to peace, work and contentment and they should be kept under surveillance.

The great mass of coast people will keep cool with Coolidge on the Jap matter but there are a comparative few who are reckless enough to start anything.

ITALY
Italy is one country in Europe that's getting back to normal steadily. Her imports have been exceeding exports by around 360 million lire a month. But a year ago the excess was nearly twice as big.

This recovery is good for Italy. But it's a loss for America and other countries that have been collectively selling to Italy more than Italy has sold them. The saving feature is that, as a country gets back to normal, it buys more as well as sells more. The healthiest state is for every country's exports to balance its imports after paying interest on money borrowed abroad.

WORDS
The new Oxford dictionary, 40 years in the making, defines 425,000 different words.

It's estimated that the average person in his daily conversation uses only several hundred of these words.

People often are advised to "look up" every strange word they encounter in their reading. If they did, they'd go to the dictionary some 400,000 and more times. They wouldn't have time to do anything else. With a good stock of slang, highly impressive, most people can express all that's in them. Slang is short-hand talk.

SCHOOLS
It'd take 3000 million dollars to bring American schools up to top-notch efficiency in the matter of housing and equipment. This is shown by a government survey of the situation.

It's claimed there are a million children who are unable to attend schools full-time on account of shortage of accommodations, and eight millions attending in obsolete buildings.

FISH
Americans rank second as fishermen, taking 86 million dollars worth of seafood out of the ocean in a year. Japan is first, with 89 millions.

The world eats 1000 million dollars worth of fish yearly. A tremendous supply of food is going to waste in the ocean. Future generations will "farm" the sea as we now intensely farm the land. High price is the brake now.

OPPORTUNITY FOR N. DAK.

Later results of the state primary election have had an unexpected turn, favorable to the Independents. The latest information available is that the Independent candidates for attorney general, commissioner of agriculture and labor, state auditor, secretary of state and possibly a majority of both houses of the legislature have been nominated. The legislature, however, is very close, and at this time it appears there will not be any great change from the lineup of two years ago, unless the November election decides otherwise.

The chief loss Independents have suffered is in the nomination for governor, as Mr. Sorlie nonpartisan candidate, has a safe majority of about 3,000 over Governor Nestos. Governor Nestos was the victim of several campaign handicaps, among them the individual candidate, of I. J. Moo, who made a very effective appeal for economy in showing a large number of employees in all departments of the state government on the monthly payroll. This attracted attention and was intended, and no doubt did take votes from Governor Nestos.

The Independent forces were not entirely favored by the democrats of the state, in this primary contest, as they have been heretofore. The contest in the democratic ranks in which two candidates contended for the nomination of governor, took votes from the Independent column, as opposing the League candidate.

A general resentment by the farmers and businessmen of the state on the failure of the national republican administration to enact certain farm legislation, especially the McNary-Haugen bill, had its undoubted effect in the vote against Governor Nestos, who was held to represent the agencies that caused the dissatisfaction. Mr. Nestos himself no doubt contributed to the loss of votes by failing to measure up to the altitude which many of his former supporters expected of him, as governor, during two administrations and during two legislative assemblies. But the government had a hard task to restore normal conditions of government in state affairs, by removing obstacles and correcting conditions inherited from his predecessor.

The primary election gives all political factions an unusual opportunity to accept the decision of the voters, and join hands in an honest effort to improve the financial and industrial conditions in the state.

HISTORY

America's six hundred who rode to their death in the Battle of the Little Big Horn, Massacre, can vie for bravery with Tennyson's immortal six hundred in the English light brigade, declares Olin D. Wheeler, historian of the Northern Pacific railway. June 25 was the 48th anniversary of the famous battle, fought just a short distance south of Custer, Mont. Indians of the Crow agency commemorated the event with a three day Wild West stampede started in the morning and lasting until Wednesday night. The stampede was held at Carryover, two miles south of the battlefield and the Indians held their dances each night. Recounting his visit to the battlefield in 1892 and his conversations with the few survivors of Custer's men, Mr. Wheeler said: "The Big Horn hills with their six hundred can easily vie with Balaklava and its six hundred in the Crimean war. The Custer battle has been mistakenly called a 'massacre' by many, but I do not believe this term can properly be applied to it. The slaughter came about in the course of a military campaign directed against the Indian antagonists. The year 1876 was one of trouble. The American centennial celebration was on in Philadelphia. Then suddenly war broke out with the Indians in the Northwest. The outbreak was not unexpected and the government had been preparing for it for some time. Supplies for the troops were rushed in over the Northern Pacific railroad which was then completed to Bismarck and Mandan, N. D."—Valley City Times Record.

"Mexico is different from any place we have ever been," said Johnny Jump Up to the Twins, as they flew along on Tommy Titmouse's back.

"Down there, is a mahogany forest," said Johnny. "See how very large the trees are. Some are so big that twenty men holding hands can hardly reach around them."
"We don't have mahogany trees in America, do we?" asked Nick.
"No," said Johnny Jump Up, "at least not in the part of America that we live in."
"Mahogany wood is so fine," said the fairy, "that it is very expensive. It is used to make furniture, and only the finest furniture at that. If you have any tables or chairs in your house that are sort of a dark color, no doubt it is mahogany."
Tommy Titmouse flew on with the three little adventurers.

"Look down there at those tall trees," said Johnny Jump Up suddenly. "Fly down a little closer, Tommy! Now can you see?"
"That's the way bananas grow," said the fairy. "Only they aren't really upside down at all. When you see them in the stores they are upside down—the bunches are."

"And now we are coming to another forest with still more queer trees," said Johnny Jump Up. "I wonder if you can guess their name? It is only the sap of the tree that is useful."
"Maple trees," shouted Nancy and Nick.
"No," said Johnny. "But they get the sap out of them exactly like they do out of maple trees to make maple syrup. No, these are rubber trees. They aren't made of rubber, goodness no, but the sap that runs out soon turns hard and that is rubber."

"What else is there in Mexico?" asked Nick.

"Come," said Johnny Jump Up, "and I will show you." So Tommy Titmouse started off again.

"There are rice fields on that low place," said Johnny Jump Up. "Few people know that much rice is raised in Mexico, but quite a lot of it grows here."

"What kind of ice cream do you like best?" asked the fairyman next.

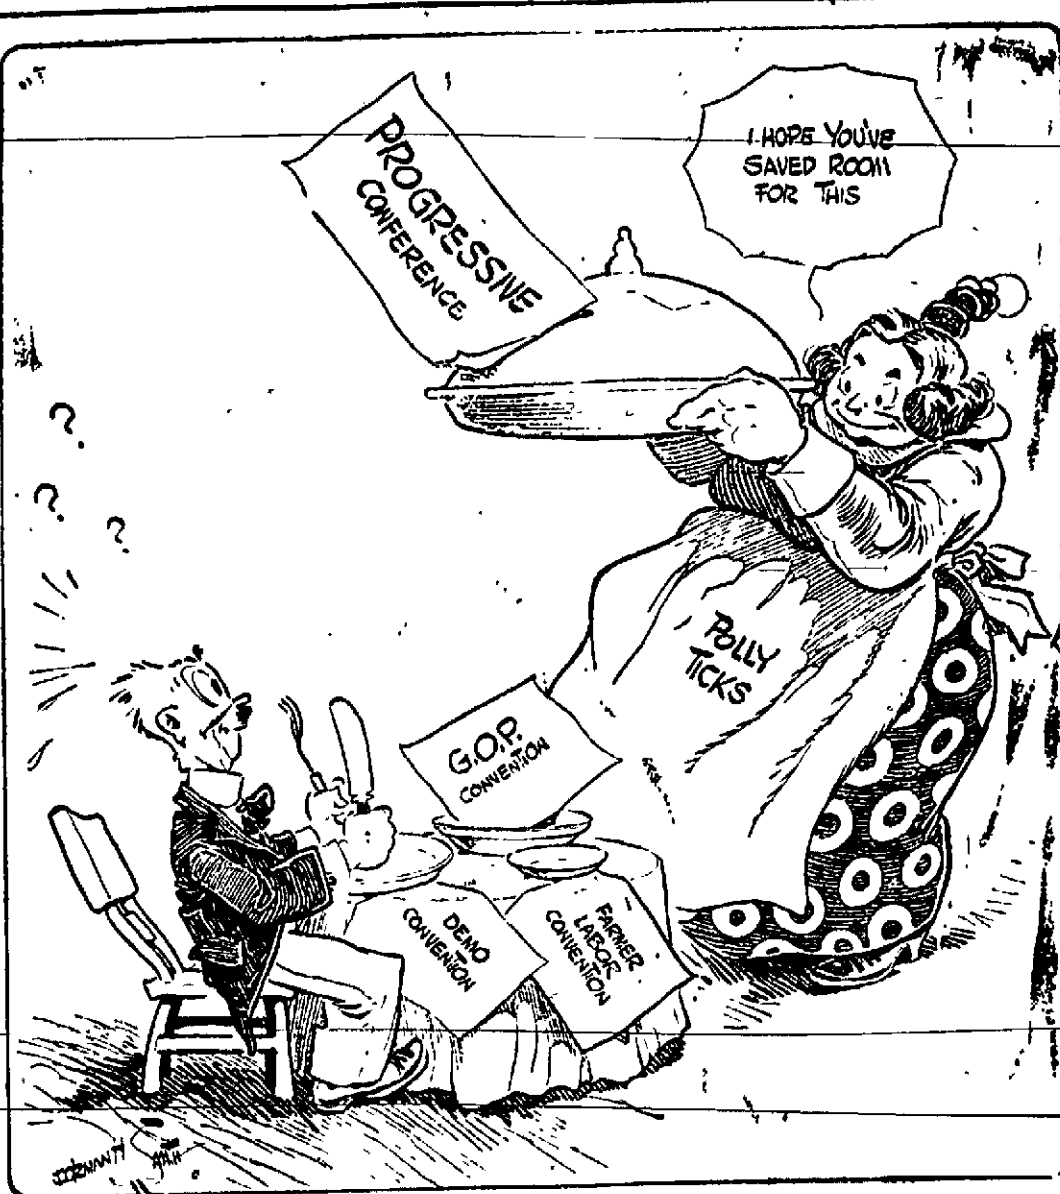

"Vanilla!" cried Nancy and Nick together.

"Well those plants down there are the ones it is made out of. Vanilla, I mean. A bean grows on it and the vanilla flavoring is made out of that. Coffee grows in Mexico, too, and cotton and sugar, and most everything, I guess. Besides its gold and silver mines are about the best in the world. And you'd be surprised at the lovely jewels found in the ground here. Opals, turquoise, emeralds and everything."

"Mexico is a great country," said Nick.

"It is!" said Johnny. "Home, now, Tommy, if you please."

FABLES ON HEALTH
ON BLOWING NOSES

Dirty noses might generally be found upon the Jones children, particularly after they had been playing in the streets and back yards. This was always more than a little annoying to Mrs. Jones, who tried to teach them to keep their noses clean.
"And like most mothers there was one thing she could not tolerate: that was the picking of the nose with their fingers. Also this is not confined to children and, besides, being a practice disgusting to most people, is most unsanitary."

Many infections have resulted. Children playing about, paying little attention to what they handle, suddenly jab a germ covered finger in the nose and send them into the body.
Also few people blow their noses properly. One nostril should be closed by pressure of the handkerchief and each nostril should be blown separately. There should be no more force used than is positively necessary, as serious troubles have risen from this cause.

MOVIES DISCOVER WILD MEN AT 700 MILES FROM HOLLYWOOD

By Jack Jungmeyer
NEA Service Writer

Los Angeles, July 3.—The last of the barbarous races of North America have been shot by the motion picture camera. They are the Seris Indians, a mysterious ethnological fragment clinging in thinning numbers to the rocky island of Tiburon in the Gulf of California.

Although Tiburon is less than 700 miles from Los Angeles and Hollywood, observers from these illustrious cities declare its denizens are thousands of years below the social level of the latter communities.

The origin of the Seris is obscure. They are believed to be older than the Aztecs. The tribe has been reduced to hundreds. This handful of natives, nevertheless, are feared by the warlike Yaqui Indians. Mexicans, under whose nominal rule they live, never visit them unless heavily armed.

The motion picture expedition was sent by Paramount and after considerable hardships brought back the first film record from the island.

Heading the party was Jesse L. Lasky, vice president of the company, who relates the following encounters with Indians.

"We reached Tiburon nine days after leaving Yuma, Ariz. Canoes loaded with natives and headed by Chief Juan Thomas came alongside our boat.

"The chief, presenting ancient Mexican credentials, assured us his followers were all nice boys and had no weapons except knives, which were visible at their belts. Their faces were decorated in designs of white bird lime.

"They returned to the shore on our promise to land the next day with plenty of gifts. All night the beach echoed with their tom toms, and they could be seen dancing about fires.

"Tales of cruelty credited to the Seris have too much foundation to be disregarded.

"They were, until recently, believed to be cannibals. They have no agriculture, depending on fish and turtles for food. They eat the flesh uncooked. They are unspeakably filthy and perhaps the lowest type of humans on the globe.

"We carried ashore many gifts. While they lusted the Seris were very friendly. When gifts failed, they tried to pull coats off our backs. The skipper, understanding their

HARDEST JOB OF ALL

By Albert Apple

Years ago the slogan of business was, "Let the buyer beware." There were few exceptions. The general attitude was that business was a battle of wits, cunning against cunning, and that profit could only be made at someone else's loss.

Traveling salesmen in those days were concerned only with getting a buyer's name on the dotted line. Once they had his signature, he had to accept the shipment or get sued.

That time is gone. For it's now realized that a dissatisfied customer doesn't come back a second time. Business used to exist mainly for the first order. Now it's out for repeat orders—to build up a lasting patronage. And its policy accordingly is based on giving full satisfaction. Concerns frequently accept a loss rather than displace a customer.

The Chesapeake & Ohio sends this slogan to its railroad employees: "The customer is always right." The idea is that a railroad sells service and that the buyer of service is entitled to the same courteous and satisfactory treatment that he would get in a store. That's correct.

The customer, of course, is NOT always right—not by a long shot. But the general attitude, that he is always right, assures him of a square deal in cases where he is right and the seller wrong.

The hardest job in the world is handling the public—selling goods or service. The average person is never quite as unreasonable as when he is spending his money, particularly for necessities. The industries that sell him his amusement have him pretty well cowed.

The way a courteous and obliging clerk is imposed on and barked at by some customers is enough to make the blood of any fair-minded person boil.

These human beings who sell us store goods, railroad tickets and the like—let us keep in mind that they are human, not just business automatons, and that the sharp and unreasonable word stings them as much as it would us.

The campaign for courtesy in handling the public is fine enough. But it's about time we had some campaigns for courtesy by the public in its dealings with clerks and other agents of business. Most modern business transactions are mutually profitable. Both sides should be fair and kind.

LETTER FROM SALLY ATERHON TO BEATRICE GRIMSHAW

Hope you can come early next week for your visit, dear Bee. Leslie called me up yesterday to tell me that she was going to celebrate her wedding anniversary the last of next week, and wanted me to add my plea to her's that you would surely be here for that interesting occasion.

Just why any one should want to celebrate a wedding anniversary is something I cannot fathom. Any anniversary is but enough, but a wedding anniversary is the worst of the bunch. I'd rather have a birthday party, and Lord knows my birthdays have been shoved into the discard for quite a few years now.

You would laugh, Bee, if you could see his Royal Highness, John Alden Prescott, these days. He's an entirely different man since his wife came home. From his actions you would think that he felt he had done some terrible thing in inviting me out to dinner a few times while his wife was away. Since her return he has gone away glumly every day to eat his luncheon alone, and every time he has passed me and said, "I'm going to luncheon, Mrs. Aterhon," he's given me a queer little look out of the tail of his eye as though he were speculating as to whether I had expected him to ask me to lunch and was disappointed because he didn't do it.

I get enough of him during the day when he is in this capacious mood without having to entertain him during the luncheon hour.

I went up to the house the other night to call on Leslie, and there seemed some sort of constraint in patrol, advised us to escape, as the natives were planning mischief. While they were squabbling over presents we got under way, having already shot several thousand feet of film.

"Angeled natives pursued us in quickly outdistanced canoes. "On the way from Tiburon to Quaymas, we suffered for lack of fresh water. The trip inland to the Seris Springs seemed too hazardous to risk.

"Three days from the time I was surrounded by half-starved savages I was again at my desk in Hollywood."

MANDAN NEWS

Mrs. Chas. Kidd Hears of Search For Missing Son

Mrs. Charles Kidd has received a letter from her daughter-in-law, Mrs. George Kidd, Seattle, declaring that George is doing everything possible and has received the unqualified assistance of Seattle newspapers in the search for a man supposed to be the way torn "Harry Kidd" who was said to have called recently at the former home of relatives disclosing his identity and seeking them.

The strange story is true according to the letter received but Harry Kidd if alive has again as mysteriously disappeared and cannot be found.

Harry L. Kidd of Mandan was listed as killed in action by the government a year after local service men in his company declare they saw him killed by a direct hit of an enemy shell. His head was shot off, they said.

However, recently, a man saying he was Harry Kidd, answering in every detail to his description, with a story of facing an operation for removal of several bullets in his body, and of having been in prison camp, and showing every sign of shellshock appeared in Seattle seeking her manner, not toward me, but toward her husband. I wonder if she has anything on her mind?

While I was there Ruth Ellington came in. I don't think you have met her. I was again struck by her cleverness. She seems to be able to wind Leslie around her little finger, at least Leslie has unbounded admiration for her business ability—a business ability which rather kills friend husband. It's a wonder Jack Alden Prescott has any use for her in his office, as from what he said the other night I could see he thought no woman was capable of doing business on a large scale.

Ruth Ellington has demonstrated that she can do this, and with an investment that was nothing more than a shoe string. She takes a strange delight in informing Mr. Prescott how her business is growing.

I didn't stay very long. Either Leslie or Mr. Prescott is very interesting and amusing, taken alone, but when they are together they are impossible—at least for me.

I don't think I care much for little journeys to the homes of my wedding friends. I wonder if when you marry Dick Summers, Bee, I'll have to cut you out of my friendship book? I hope not, for Lord knows there are too few names there already.

Come down, dear. I think I need you, for I feel that I am getting rather more cynical than usual, but whatever else I may do, whatever else I may think, know that I love you and I never have been cynical thought where you are concerned.

DIES IN NEW MEXICO
Death yesterday claimed Helpa Parkin Neakas at Albuquerque, New Mexico, where she has been living for the past four years in the hopes of restoring her health. She had contracted tuberculosis some four years ago and although she recovered her health partially, had recently suffered an abscess of the lungs, which caused her death. She was daughter of Mrs. Lucy Parkins of this city.

Monday afternoon Mrs. Parkins received word of the serious condition of her daughter and left that evening with her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Cooley for Albuquerque. Death, however, claimed its victim before they could reach Albuquerque.

FARGO GOLF PLAYERS MAKE WORLD RECORD

Fargo, July 3.—A. J. Danstrom and H. J. Sperry, well known Fargo golfers, established Tuesday what is believed to be a world record in golf.

Both men joined the hole-in-one club within the same hour on the same hole on the Fargo County Club links. They played their massive shots from the tee of No. 5 directly in the hole, a distance of approximately 100 yards.

Jimmy Norton, Fargo professional, declares he believes this is the first time this feat has been accomplished by two men on the same hole within an hour's time.

HANDICAP PLAY IS PLANNED

A handicap golf tournament will be played at the Bismarck Town and Country Club, beginning at 9 A. M. the morning of the Fourth of July, according to C. S. Haines, chairman of the golf committee. All club players are asked to enter. Handicaps equalizing the play. Prizes will be offered.

Germans Like Hockey

Berlin, July 3.—(A. P.)—Hockey and cricket, played by few in Germany before the war, are gaining in popularity, but tennis continues the game most in vogue. While the number of golf players has greatly increased in the last few years, the spread of this game is hampered by the lack of ground for links. Berlin for instance, has only two courses.

Billy Evans Says

Talk of match races on the Grand Circuit in 1924 has been revived by rumors that the owner of the great trotting mare, Rose Scott, 2:00 3/4, in the stable of Thomas W. Murphy, Syracuse reinsman, has posted an offer to match Rose against any trotter in training, other than Peter Manning, 1:56 3/4, for a side bet of $25,000.

Rose Scott, winner of the Kentucky Futurity for three-year-olds in 1921 and winner of the Transylvania for aged horses in 1923, unquestionably is one of the gamest and fleetest trotters, and it is the opinion of horsemen that if Henry Oliver of Pittsburgh, breeder and owner of Rose Scott, really has made the offer referred to, it was not necessary to bar even Peter Manning, fastest trotter of all times.

Rose Scott, daughter of Peter Scott, 2:05, which was a son of the invincible star the Great, 2:07 3/4, is believed to be better than a two-minute horse right now.

Her terrific speed in the Transylvania last year gives every indication of this. She trotted twice in 2:05, the other in 2:04 1/4, and her final quarters :028 3/4 and :28, were at the rate of a 1:57 and 1:54 clip, respectively.

Few trotters in training possess the extreme speed of Rose Scott and her ability to carry that speed, and it is quite possible that the owners of other horses might not give Oliver's proposition serious consideration.

However, in the matter of racing horses it is a case of "you never can tell," and there may be more than one speedster capable of taking Rose's measure.

It will be interesting to observe if there is any answer to Oliver's challenge.

JOHNNY NEUN

Ty Cobb has planted a genuine star in the American Association. Some day, perhaps in the near future, the Georgia Peach will bring the youngster back from St. Paul and have him take Lou Blue's place at first base for the Tigers.

We refer to Johnny Neun, the sensation of the Association this year. He is the most talked of individual in the double A loop.

Cobb loaned Neun to St. Paul this spring.

All he has done for the Apostles thus far is to lead the league in batting, and in base stealing.

He has a record of more than 20 pilfered sacks to date. At this rate, he promises to wind up the season with something like 100 stolen bases.

Fantastic Baseball Result of Altitude

Salt Lake City, July 3.—(A. P.)—Slugging believed to be unprecedented in organized baseball, a total of 264 hits in a series of seven games between the San Francisco and Salt Lake City clubs of the Pacific Coast league played at the local park recently, left the fans gasping.

An explanation other than the fallibility of pitchers was sought, since the batting orgy was participated in generally by players on both teams and affected virtually all the twirlers of the rival clubs. J. Cecil Alter, chief of the weather bureau here, hazarded the opinion that the high altitude of Salt Lake City, 4,200 feet, had something to do with it. The ball finds less resistance in the rarified atmosphere of the Utah metropolis than in the sea level cities along the coast, the forecaster said, and the players are in better physical condition.

This theory gained support among

HIGH POWER MAY SOLVE PAY PUZZLE

By NEA Service
New York, July 3.—The question, "Who is to pay for broadcasting?" promises soon to answer itself.

The answer may come with the erection of a dozen or so super-power stations, blanketing the country, and gradually forcing the 550-odd stations out of business.

This sudden change in radio is suggested from two sources.

1. The Associated Manufacturers of Electrical Supplies, who at their Atlantic City convention recently, proposed the erection of ten giant stations to replace those now broadcasting and to be paid for by two per cent of the radio receipts.

2. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which announces the completion of a 5000-watt apparatus for broadcasting.

Against this definite trend toward limited super-power broadcasting stand two objections.

One is the present law which limits Class B broadcasters to between 500 and 1000 watts. Only on special permit have broadcasters been permitted to transmit on more than one kilowatt, and then only for experimental purposes.

The other big objection to super-power transmission, for the present, is an increased opposition to the scheme from various interested sources, headed by the American Radio Association.

Hard to Escape
"While it is stated that such a broadcasting system would not interfere with local stations which take care of local needs," says Alfred M. Caddell, secretary of the association, "experience has shown that unless exceptionally selective receivers are used, it is impossible to tune out stations using a carrier wave of high power."

"The radio business has been built largely on the thrill of getting distance, and if this thrill (and therefore other stations) is destroyed by blanketing the country steadily with high power, it might lead to serious consequences in the radio world."

According to Pierre Boucheron of the Radio Corporation of America, however, we have too many broadcasting stations. Cutting them down to a few high power stations would be not only more efficacious but more economical, he adds.

Only the more wealthy and profitable firms would be able to take up broadcasting of the super-power variety. For the cost of an installation is figured between $40,000 and $50,000, and its operation would be much higher than the Class B 500-watt stations of today.

FARGO GOLF PLAYERS MAKE WORLD RECORD

Fargo, July 3.—A. J. Danstrom and H. J. Sperra, well known Fargo golfers, established Tuesday what is believed to be a world's record in golf.

Both men joined the hole-in-one club within the same hour on the same hole on the Fargo Country Club links. They played their massive shots from the tee of No. 5 directly in the hole, a distance of approximately 100 yards.

Jimmy Norton, Fargo professional, declares he believes this is the first time this feat has been accomplished by two men on the same hole within an hour's time.

HANDICAP PLAY IS PLANNED

A handicap golf tournament will be played at the Bismarck Town and Country Club, beginning at 9 A. M. the morning of the Fourth of July, according to C. S. Haines, chairman of the golf committee. All club players are asked to enter, the handicaps equalizing the play. Prizes will be offered.

Germans Like Hockey

Berlin, July 3. (A. P.)—Hockey and cricket, played by few in Germany before the war, are gaining popularity, but tennis continues to be the game most in vogue. While the number of golf players has greatly increased in the last few years, the spread of this game is hampered by the lack of ground for links. Berlin, for instance, has only two courses.

Billy Evans Says

Talk of match races on the Grand Circuit in 1924 has been revived by rumors that the owner of the great trotting mare, Rose Scott, 2:00 3/4, in the stable of Thomas W. Murphy, Syracuse reinsman, has posted an offer to train Rose against any trotter in training, other than Peter Manning, 1:56 3/4, for a side bet of $25,000.

Rose Scott, winner of the Kentucky Futurity for three-year-olds in 1921 and winner of the Transylvania for aged horses in 1923, unquestionably is one of the gamiest and fleetest trotters, and it is the opinion of horsemen that if Henry Oliver of Pittsburgh, breeder and owner of Rose Scott, really has made the offer referred to, it was not necessary to bar even Peter Manning, fastest trotter of all times.

Rose Scott, daughter of Peter Scott, 2:05, which was a son of the invincible star of the Great, 2:07 3/4, is believed to be better than a two-minute horse right now.

Her terrific speed in the Transylvania last year gives every indication of this. She trotted two miles, one in 2:05, the other in 2:04 1/4, and her final quarter, :028 3/4 and :028, were at the rate of a 1:57 and 1:54 1/4, respectively.

Few trotters in training possess the extreme speed of Rose Scott and her ability to carry that speed, and it is quite possible that the owner of other horses might not give Oliver's proposition serious consideration.

The Nut Cracker

Washington, first in war, first in peace, and first in the American League. . . For a few days anyway.

Mr. O'Goofy was terribly shocked to hear that Helen Willis lost two matches in England. "Why, I imagined she was too young to smoke," he commented.

The experts predict America will regain the javelin championship this summer, but unfortunately the experts are seldom right.

St. Louis fans are heartless. . . They do not even include a cork screw when they throw bottles at umpires.

COBB'S DISCARD SENSATION IN AMERICAN ASSOCIATION

Johnny Neun

Ty Cobb has planted a genuine star in the American Association. Sunday, perhaps in the near future (the Georgia Peach will bring the youngster back from St. Paul and have him take Lou Blue's place at first base for the Tigers.

We refer to Johnnie Neun, the sensation of the Association this year. He is the most talked of individual in the double A loop.

Cobb loaned Neun to St. Paul this spring.

All he has done for the Apostles thus far is to lead the league in batting, and in base stealing.

He has a record of more than 20 pilfered sacks to date. At this rate, he promises to wind up the season with something like 100 stolen bases.

Many still adhere to the old-fashioned method of conducting business affairs in offices.

WAS GRACEFUL LOSER

Helen Willis was at least a graceful loser. The American tennis champion lost her first two matches in England but had no alibi to offer. "I was just outplayed," she said—and meant it.

German Students Help Selves

Goettingen, Germany, July 3. (A. P.)—The self-help student, unknown in Germany before the war, is increasing in the universities because of the existing economic conditions. It is estimated that one-half of the student body of the country receives less than $15 a month each from home, so that the American custom of part earning by college students became a necessity.

The universities and allied organizations have taken keen interest in the matter, establishing employment bureaus, tailor shops, shoe shops, bookstores, look stores, hair salons, printing shops and even small factories, where students are employed in off hours. The usual pay is one meal for an hour of work.

At Goettingen University for instance, 1,000 students earn their meager meal and about 500 their supper by manual and clerical work.

One effect is said to be the gradual bettering of the student's financial position.

Fantastic Baseball Result of Altitude

Salt Lake City, July 3. (A. P.)—Slugging believed to be unprecedented in organized baseball, a total of 264 hits in a series of seven games between the San Francisco and Salt Lake City clubs of the Pacific Coast League played at the local park recently, left the fans gasping.

An explanation other than the fallibility of pitchers was sought, since the batting orgy was participated in generally by players on both teams and affected virtually all the twirlers of the rival clubs. J. Cecil Alter, chief of the weather bureau here, hazarded the opinion that the high altitude of Salt Lake City, 4,300 feet, had something to do with it.

The ball finds less resistance in the rarified atmosphere of the Utah metropolis than in the sea level cities along the coast, the forecasters said, and the players are in better physical condition.

Distance Man

JOHNNY GRAY

Philadelphia is the home of Johnny Gray and he is one of the American hopes in the Olympic cross-country and the 5,000 meter run.

HIGH POWER MAY SOLVE PAY PUZZLE

By NEA Service

New York, July 3.—The question, "Who is to pay for broadcasting?" promises soon to answer itself.

The answer may come with the erection of a dozen or so super-power stations, blanketing the country, and gradually forcing the 650-odd stations out of business.

This sudden change in radio is suggested from two sources:

1. The Associated Manufacturers of Electric Supplies, who at their Atlantic City convention recently proposed the erection of ten giant stations to replace those now broadcasting, and to be paid for by two per cent of the radio receipts.

2. The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which announced the completion of a 5,000-watt apparatus for broadcasting.

Law and Protest

Against this definite trend toward limited super-power broadcasting stand two objections.

One is the present law which limits Class B broadcasters to between 500 and 1,000 watts. Only on special permit have broadcasters been permitted to transmit on more than one kilowatt, and then only for experimental purposes. The actual perfection of larger apparatus by the biggest company in the field, however, is an almost certain sign of a change in the limitations.

The other big objection to super-power transmission, for the present, is an increased opposition to the scheme from various interested sources, headed by the American Radio Association.

Hard to Escape

"While it is stated that such a broadcasting system would not interfere with local stations which take care of local needs," says Alfred M. Caddell, secretary of the association, "experience has shown that unless exceptionally selective receivers are used, it is impossible to tune out stations using a carrier wave of high power."

"The radio business has been built largely on the thrill of getting distance, and if this thrill (and therefore other stations) is destroyed by blanketing the country steadily with high power, it might lead to serious consequences in the radio world."

According to Pierre Boucheron of the Radio Corporation of America, however, we have too many broadcasting stations. Cutting them down to ten high power stations would be more economical, he adds.

Only the more wealthy and profitable firms would be able to take up broadcasting of the super-power variety. For the cost of an installation is figured between $40,000 and $50,000, and its operation would be much higher than the Class B 500-watt stations of today.

Peking Is Set Against Queues

Peking, July 3. (A. P.)—Coolies who still persist in wearing a queue may not engage in the popular employment of pulling "rickshaws," according to an order issued by the Peking police. Just why the ban is placed against them does not appear, unless it is for the purpose of further discouraging the practice of wearing queues, which has all but ceased among coolies.

ENTIRE BOARD OF BOTTINEAU IS INDICTED

Charged With Neglecting Duty in Supervising County Officers

Bottineau, N. D., July 3.—The entire board of county commissioners of Bottineau county and former county treasurer, Henry Dana, were named in indictments returned by the special grand jury here to District Judge Buttz.

Dana is charged on one count with having deposited county funds in the First National Bank of Bottineau in excess of the deposit bond given by the bank. The five commissioners are indicted on two counts, charging "failure to supervise the conduct of county officers" and "failure to superintend the fiscal affairs" of the county.

The county lost considerable money in the failure of the First National Bank of Bottineau.

PAIR HELD FOR TRIAL

Must Return to Jamestown, on Murder Charge

St. Paul, July 3.—Frank and Cora Funk, held in Minneapolis in connection with charges of manslaughter in the first degree for North Dakota officials, must return to St. Paul today, after being held in St. Paul today for request for the two sought by Governor R. A. Nestos.

The Funks are charged with manufacturing intoxicating liquors and in a negligent manner permitting some of the boiling mash to pour over their young daughter, Mabel, who died from burns received in the accident.

MAKE MUSEUM OF CHURCH

Church Attendance Decreases in Bolshevik Russia

Leningrad, Russia, July 3. (By the A. P.)—Church attendance in Bolshevik Russia has decreased to such an extent that many churches are on the point of closing their doors. Contributions from congregations are so meager that they scarcely keep the churches open and pay the slender salaries of pastors.

As a result, the governing body of St. Isaac's cathedral, erected at a cost of exceeding eleven million dollars, have made it into a museum and will charge admission.

LAST YANK ELIMINATED

Wimbledon, England, July 3.—R. Norris Williams, sole remaining American in the men's singles of the Wimbledon lawn tennis tournament, was defeated in the semi-finals this youthful French star, who won 6-1; 3-6; 6-2; 6-3.

Child Labor Amendment Is Voted Down

Atlanta, Ga., July 3.—By a vote of 34 to 0 the state senate adopted today by substitute, a house resolution providing for the rejection of the 20th amendment to the constitution of the United States, which would give Congress the power to regulate and prohibit employment of all persons under 18 years of age.

URGE COX GO TO CONVENTION

Dayton, O., July 3.—Scores of telegrams have been received at former Governor James M. Cox's newspaper office urging the former Governor to come to New York as "titular" head of the party. Up to noon Mr. Cox could not be located and he had left no word as to his whereabouts.

DEFEAT BLOW AT UNIFICATION

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 3. (By the A. P.)—The Methodist Episcopal General Conference today defeated a resolution which would have resulted in immediate adjournment without action on the unification plan.

GLOVER COMES HERE TONIGHT

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Remarkable picture showing scenes after C. E. Johnson, air mail pilot, dropped into the bay off Miller Field, Staten Island, N. Y., when his engine went dead as he was executing a loop-the-loop during a bit of stunt flying. He nose-dived into the bay and escaped with but slight injuries. Above are shown bathers carrying the pilot ashore while below is the plane in the water with a tug seeking to pull it out.

MORE STORMS

"Buster," shaggy French poodle belonging to a family living in the devastated area of tornado-swept Lorain, O., was marooned on top of a garage when the photographer happened by. The terrible wind had blown him up there from the ground. He probably had been there a couple of hours. But that was much too long for "Buster." He told the cameraman so. He consented, though, to stand still until the photographer could get his picture. Then the cameraman helped him down.

The same storm that brought such death and desolation to Lorain, Sandusky and other northern Ohio cities also hit Peoria, Ill. Three were reported killed there. Here is what it did to St. Boniface's Catholic Church.

While the tornado was sweeping across from Illinois to Pennsylvania, a cloudburst and a flood were inundating the streets of Galesburg, Ill. It was the second time within a few weeks that Galesburg had seen Mother Nature angry. The first time, a terrific hailstorm swept the city. Here can be seen the swollen waters of Cedar Park, a small creek running through the heart of the city, racing toward the residential district. Tracks of the Santa Fe Railroad were submerged under several feet of water. The creek, usually only a few feet across and a few inches deep, suddenly had become more than a block wide.

The Young Stribling-Harry Greb boxing contest and other matches scheduled for July 4 in the open air arena here, cannot be held until the ban is lifted on the smallpox quarantine in the adjacent state of Michigan, which, he said, will be two weeks at least.

Mayor Dall said the nearest case of smallpox of which he knew was at Umballa, India, from Allahabad, several hundred miles from Michigan City, but deemed the postponement of the fight necessary as a precaution. Promoters of the fight held a hasty conference and announced that the date would be set

GIRL NOW HAS FOUR PARENTS

New Difficulty Arises in Nancy Stair's Case

Minneapolis, July 3.—A sequel to the chapter of domestic events in which little Nancy Stair was the central figure was written today at Duluth, when the child's father, Irving L. Stair, Minneapolis grain man, was married to Mrs. Ruth Peterson, Minneapolis.

Nancy now has four parents—Irving Stair, her father; Mrs. Stair, her new stepmother; Mrs. Merritt J. Corbett, her mother, and Merritt J. Corbett, her stepfather, a millionaire manufacturer.

Mr. and Mrs. Stair were married in the presence of only a few friends at the Duluth home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burg, the ceremony being performed by Rev. H. J. Adlard of the First Unitarian church. They moved to Duluth with Nancy, who arrived in Minneapolis last Sunday.

The child will spend three months with Mr. and Mrs. Stair, according to the court order directing her custody and then will return for nine months to her mother and stepfather, with whom she spent part of last winter in the south.

MAN WHO CUT FLAG IS HELD

Japanese Police Charge 21-Year-Old Youth With Act

Tokio, July 3.—Rihel Okada, 21, was arrested at Osaka, under a charge of cutting down the flag of the United States at the American embassy here.

Tokio police asserted that Okada was a member of a society for the prevention of hishivism and that he had been identified as a member of the gang which mobbed Viscount Goto's residence last December 27.

The two young men arrested yesterday of the same society, which is said to be made up mostly of young reactionaries with ruffianly tendencies. They are still in custody. All three lived in a lodging house which the society maintained near the American embassy. It was there that the mutilated flag was found. The criminal code prescribes a maximum of two years imprisonment for the crime.

Interpellations of the government in regard to the cutting down by an unidentified Japanese of the flag at the American embassy occupied virtually the entire attention of the house of peers at its session today. Baron Kijuro Shidehara, minister of foreign affairs, recounted the measures taken to express to the United States the regret of the Japanese government for the incident.

HAWAIIAN VOLCANO ACTIVE

Kilauea Continues Display While Tourists Flee

Volcano House, Island of Hawaii, July 3.—(A. P.)—Halemaunau, the Hawaiian House of Everlasting fire, and pit of the active volcano of Kilauea, continues spasmodically to present a display of terrible natural powers which has not been excelled within the memory of living man. Renewed activity may rock the entire island, it is predicted by scientists.

Violent outbursts, wracking the throat of the firepit and sending in incandescent boulders hurtling high into the void, have occurred on an average of twice daily during recent days, accompanied by heavy dust clouds which are split and rent by bolts of lightning and peals of thunder. Earthquakes of varying intensity have been an almost constant concomitant of the eruptions. Steam roars from the cauldrons of the crater, and huge avalanches of rock, which once formed the rim of the crater, go crashing down to be hurled up again by the next explosion.

Tremendous subterranean forces are at work under the surface, in the pit and under the earth of the surrounding region. Serious quake shocks have occurred in the Puna and Kau districts, opening wide cracks in the surface, some as wide as 200 feet.

With the descent of the rock, ash-covered, mushrooming clouds of dust, one rising atop the next, caught in the whirl of heat from below, balloon upward and upward, giving the pit the appearance of a vast factory chimney. Caught by the trade winds, the murky banner trails off toward Kau, the fire particles held within its fold falling like rain and painting the landscape near at hand with a lavender smear, in the distance with a covering that appears almost like banks of snow. Beneath this canopy of cloud the sun is blotted out and the countryside is darkened as by an approaching thunderstorm.

The desert land of Kau are talking on a new appearance, as is the floor of Kilauea proper. The plantation town of Pahala, some 25 miles from the volcano, likewise suffers. Ash one-sixteenth of an inch thick has spread over the buildings, fields and streets of the community.

Before the present disturbances began the pit was a rough ellipse, measuring 2,000 by 1,800 feet. Today the void is estimated by Roy Finch, in charge of the volcano observatory, to be approximately 2,500 by 4,000 feet.

The Hawaiian National Park, in which Kilauea is situated, is considered a danger area. Visitors are welcomed at the Volcano House, but they have been very carefully guided, especially since the death of T. A. Taylor and the disappearance of two soldiers who had been visiting at the Kilauea military camp.

Motorists are warned that if they "insist on taking a chance" in approaching within three miles of the volcano, they should keep the road open and be ready for instant flight.
